TRUCK IS LADEN WITH GROCERIES

Believed That Truck Must Have Skidded And Then Upset In The Gutter

Another fatality was added to a long list of accidents at New Bedford this morning when a truck, driven by George Hoagland, 30, Market street, Youngstown, O., overturned on a curve in front of the Presbyterian church and caught fire. Hoagland, in a closed cab, was unable to extricate himself. His body was badly burned.

Hoagland was alone in the truck, and nobody knows exactly how the accident occurred. Samuel Eklis, who lives near the curve, has his alarm clock set for 5:30 in the morning. The alarm had just gone off, when Mrs. Eklis saw a light from the blazing truck. Eklis ran out and found the truck overturned against the bank in front of the church. The cab and whole front end of the truck was on fire and the flames were spreading toward the back end.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Electric bills are going up for some this week. As you walk down East Washington street at night the colorful light displays on a few of the buildings can't help but take your attention. Noticed several other building owners were getting lights strung upon their buildings today.

They took light steps, for theirs was a straight-a-way to Christmas and the holidays.

Local streams rose rapidly over the week end, due to the heavy rain of Saturday night and Sunday. A great difference was noted in the Nesheannock creek, while the Shenango is not expected to show any great difference for another day or so.

Local residents, returning home from church last evening, were treated to a heavy fall of "the beautiful." Flakes as big as half dollar.

New Wilmington Youth Is Killed In Plane Crash

Fleming W. Comstock, 18, Loses Life In Plane Fall Near Edenburg

ARTHUR BARLETT, PILOT, INJURED

Plane Hits Tree And Takes Nose Dive To Ground—Lands Near House

Fleming W. Comstock, aged 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Comstock of New Wilmington, was killed, and Arthur Barlett, aged 18, son of Rev. and Mrs. S. H. Barlett, also of New Wilmington, was painfully injured, when an airplane operated by Barlett, struck a tree, took a nose dive, and fell near Edenburg about 5:30 Saturday evening.

Comstock's neck was broken; Barlett received a ragged wound over the right eye, and had one leg pierced near the knee by a brass rod. He was brought to the Jamestown Memorial hospital.

The plane landed and buried its nose in the ground within 20 feet of a large farm house, occupied by E. A. Easley and family. Members of the family, numbering a half dozen or more, had very narrow escapes, as the wings of the plane were within five feet of a kitchen window at which several were standing, when it fell. The plane was standing on end, with its nose buried in the earth, when it came to a stop.

E. A. Easley, E. J. Maughan and other members of the family who had witnessed the accident, immediately rushed out to extricate the men from the plane. They found that the engine had been stove up to within six inches of the seat. The men were caught in the wreckage in such a manner that it was with difficulty that they were taken out. Comstock was unconscious and Barlett was in a semi-conscious condition when taken out. They were carried into the house.

PEIPING, Dec. 1.—Forty Chinese soldiers attempting to rescue an American woman missionary and a British nurse held for ransom by bandits in the interior of Kansu Province were killed in an attack upon the Marauders, messages received here today stated.

Urgent medical assistance was requested for the American missionary, Mrs. H. D. Hayward of 4217 Fifth street, Seattle, accompanied by Miss E. Gomersall, the British nurse, she was on the way to the hospital here when held up at Paoto and robbed of all clothing in bitterly cold weather.

A rescue party of American and British army officers was in Paoto today to press Chinese officials into action to secure immediate release of the captives.

A formal protest also will be laid before the Nanking government in regard to the brutal treatment to which the women were subjected.

County Commissioner And Party Have Narrow Escapes On Roads Near Franklin

County Commissioner T. J. McCullough had an exciting automobile trip Sunday due to an icy condition of the roads which he encountered near Franklin and eastward to Port Allegheny.

Mr. McCullough, with his wife, started from Wampum at 3 a. m. Sunday to take Pauline McCullough, daughter of his son, William McCullough and Lillian Lipp, daughter of T. J. Lipp, of Newberg, near Wampum, to Mansfield, Pa., where the young women are attending school.

The roads were in fair condition until they reached the long hill on this side of Franklin. McCullough was about half way down the hill, when his car started to skid on the ice, a thin layer of which covered the bricks. After numerous hairbreadth escapes he finally reached the bottom of the hill, where he stopped and put on chains.

After he had passed through Franklin the ice became worse and the chains failed to give a reasonable degree of safety. He stopped at a garage, bought a new set of chains which he had placed on the back wheels, while the old chains he had placed on the front wheels.

Equipped with chains on both sets of wheels, McCullough thought he would have easy going but he soon found that he was mistaken. The road was very slippery and scores of machines were in the ditch. When he reached Port Allegheny he decided not to try it any further, placed the young women on a bus, and started back home. The home trip was made without any serious mishap, although he had numerous narrow escapes.

Crowded galleries, looking for a thrill, witnessed the get-away, but it was drabber than usual.

Matrimonial Agency Bride Turns Out To Be Big Crook—Takes $2,000

(International News Service)
NEW HOPE, Pa., Dec. 1.—Edward Conard, 59-year old Jericho mountain farmer today was mourning the loss of his youthful bride of a month and $2,000.

The bride, Bernice Brewer, of Salem, Ind., was obtained through a Connecticut matrimonial agency, Conard revealed.

Hardly had the marriage taken place, Conard said, than his wife asserted she would have to have a bonfire, a washing machine, a radio, and lot of other new things. He bought them all, Conard admitted in hopes of making his new bride happy. Then she insisted his savings be placed in a joint account. The next day she disappeared with $2,000.

In requesting the police to try and trace Bernice back to Salem Conard made it clear he doesn't want his wife arrested. He'd rather have her back, he said. If she won't come then he wants the $2,000.

It's a flood that will spread through the local stores and sweep out goods as it goes, and the fellow who has one is happy now, what cares he if it snows. For the money will buy him an overcoat, some shoes and a load of coal, and it comes to him just because he kept his eye on his savings goal. MURDER CHARGES HAVE BEEN FILED

Youths Admit Attack—In-

Police Officials

(International News Service)
GARY, Ind., Dec. 1.—Charged with attacking and murdering Arlene Gwendolyn Draves, pretty 18-year old Emerson high school graduate, five youths were arrested today. One of them is said by police to have confessed to the attack after they had attended a wine party with the girl.

Virgil Kirkland, former high school football star, made a statement, authorities said, in which he admitted he and the four others had attacked the girl. All five can be tried on first degree murder charges, according to Indiana law.

Induced To Drink.
The party was attended by a number of former high school athletes and their wives and girl friends. Police were told that Miss Draves was induced to consume the wine.

Kirkland in his asserted statement said he carried Miss Draves out to an automobile for some fresh air. Later he was joined by the other four youths under arrest, Leon Stanford, 21; Henry Shirk, 24; Paul Barton, 21; and David Thompson, a city fireman, Kirkland said.

They then drove to a restaurant and returned to Thompson's home where the party was in progress. Police believe the girl had died before they reached Thompson's home.

Full Probe Planned.
The youths became alarmed when they could not revive the girl and went to Dr. R. O. Wharton's residence where she was pronounced dead.

Deputy Coroner C. A. Owens said there were indications the girl had been choked. Cerebral hemorrhage and shock caused her death, he said, and evidence pointed to the fact that she had put up a desperate battle with her assailants.

Promising a full investigation police Chief Stanley Buckland blamed "poisoned liquor" for the tragedy.

Old Farmer Hawkins was known as a shrewd trader, and he was constantly trading in this farm or that one. Indeed, it was said that he spent more time trading farms than farming. One day Farmer Hawkins agreed with Bill Hooks of the same town to sell him a tract. The arrangement was that Hooks was to pay a certain amount in cash and the remainder at stated times and in stated amounts. Hooks took possession of the land. Hooks hadn't been on the land long himself before he received an offer for half of the tract he had. At Hooks' request Farmer Hawkins conveyed the half to the buyer and Hooks retained possession of the remaining half. But a little later Farmer Hawkins came to Hooks and said that he had a customer for the other half, on which Hooks was living, and that if Hooks would turn that part back to him he could give Hooks a handsome profit on the deal. Hooks agreed cheerfully, moved off the land and Farmer Hawkins sold it at a substantial profit. But when Hooks went to Hawkins and asked for the amount promised, Hawkins had forgotten it, and refused to be reminded of it. He argued that any promise he might have made should have been in writing, and since it was merely verbal, he could not be held. Hooks sued.

While the rain over the week end will have little effect on springs and wells, it raised small streams considerably, and farmers who are hauling water from these sources are rejoicing. It would take at least a week of steady rain to start springs flowing again, many farmers state.

Local deer hunters who were out during the special deer season reported these animals plentiful. Many appeared to be in a half-starved condition, due to the dryness of vegetation, which seemingly offers them little nourishment. They report many does under the legal size were killed, and a great many fawns were exacted from hunters, because the animals they killed did not weigh the required 60 pounds with the entrails removed.

With the end of the special deer season Saturday, many hunters started out today to kill the bucks. Many refused to take advantage of the doe season, claiming they could get no sport out of killing the females. The animals will be more wary because of the shooting in deer territory during the past week, and those who bring back a buck will earn their game.

Due to the sudden change in weather conditions during the night, some of the highways were quite icy this morning in spots. Some of the hills were ashed early. Improved roads north of New Wilmington were reported as quite icy early today.

Christmas saving fund checks totalling $328,000 are being sent out this week by six banking institutions of New Castle. The money released will probably give a lot of stimulus to business during the next week or two.

In a local dental office this morning Pa Newc noticed a lemon plant in a flower pot. DEER SEASON OPENS. HUNDREDS IN WOODS

Officials said, it would have little effect on the kill.

Half a million licenses have been issued to hunters, the commission reported, but fully 80 per cent of them were to small game hunters who were not expected to be in the field today.

Last season, 22,822 bucks were killed during the deer season, but the number is expected to be smaller this year, game officials said. No figures are yet available on the number of doe killed during the special three day season but state game officials believed cold weather cut down on the total, as many hunters kept to their camps during the cold snap.

ALUMNI WILL PLAY HIGH SCHOOL TEAM IN BENEFIT CONTEST

Admission to the bleachers on the western side of the field will cost 50 cents.

The fund raised through the football game will be administered by the special committee named for this purpose by the school board consisting of W. J. Offutt, Mayor W. H. Gillespie and Dr. C. C. Green, superintendent of schools.

Parochial Schools to Share.
The parochial schools of the city will receive their share of this fund as well as the public schools.

Selection of the alumni as an opponent for the high school team was determined upon when it was found that no high school opponent could be secured without paying out an exorbitant guarantee.

With the alumni playing, the expenses will be almost negligible and a much larger sum will be realized for this relief fund the committee in charge of the contest believes.

If the weather is favorable, it is hoped to have the stadium filled next Saturday. A great many of the fans have been clamoring for this game and they should now show their appreciation by boosting the game as much as possible.

A real contest should result, as quite a number of the players who will be selected on the alumni team will be chosen from boys who are recent graduates and who are now making names for themselves in the larger colleges of the country, in addition to others who have dropped out of the game and are not attending school anywhere at the present time.

Urge Support of Fans.
Sargeant and Connery are now hard at work selecting the aggregate tion which will represent the old grade, and hope to announce the personnel of their team within the next few days.

The committee in charge of the game asks the loyal support of every football fan in the city for this contest, as it will mean relief for many children, who are now attending school undernourished because their parents are unable to provide them with even the bare necessities of life. The relief will be administered through the schools.

A committee named by Dr. Green is already at work investigating cases which have been brought to the attention of the school authorities, and those who are deserving will be assured of help during the coming winter.

EGYPTIAN OBELISKS AS ASTRO-NOMICAL INSTRUMENTS
By Arthur DeV. Carpenter.

Many of the Egyptian obelisks in ancient days were used as astronomical instruments called the gnomon, with which most remarkable results were realized. One of these granite shafts of known height, erected perpendicular to a given horizontal plane, served to show by its shadow the time of the day, and the annual journey of the sun northward till the longest day was recorded when the shadow of the gnomon was shortest. Then again the final shortest day of the year would be indicated when the gnomon recorded the sun's shadow at its longest. The entire year was measured, and the obliquity of the ecliptic recorded. Central Park, New York City, displays an Egyptian obelisk.

MAN IS BURNED TO DEATH WHEN TRUCK IS UPSET

McClennahan, who with a number of others, was soon on the scene. They made frantic efforts to put out the fire, but without result. Constable McClennahan, as soon as he learned that the driver of the truck had lost his life, called Coroner J. P. Caldwell and an ambulance.

When Coroner Caldwell arrived he found a load of groceries, which had been on the truck, burning briskly. Canned and bottled goods were bursting with explosions like shots from guns, making it dangerous for the men who were trying to get the body of Hoagland out.

Body Is Recovered.
The truck belonged to the Mutual Transfer Company of Youngstown, O., and was laden with groceries for A. and P. stores in this city. It was followed by another truck, belonging to the same company. When this truck, driven by Elmer Trullen arrived, a chain was secured and attached to the burning truck. Trullen then pulled the chassis of the burning truck out, but the load and the truck body remained in the gutter.

The truck was loaded with canned goods, bottled coffee, sugar, coffee and various other groceries, some of them of a very inflammable nature. They made a hot fire and it was nearly an hour after the fire was discovered before the charred body of Hoagland was recovered. The body was taken to Youngstown.

Man Breaks Into Seventh Ward Place

Officers Hagan and Suber in patrolling seventh ward district last night, discovered that a window had been broken by a man in gaining entrance into a former bowling alley on North Liberty street, next door to the White Star Restaurant. The place is not operating but the equipment is still in the place.

The officers investigated and found Rudolph Bechhofer of the seventh ward, hiding in the place and placed him under arrest. He was under the influence of liquor and had some moonshine in his possession.

This morning, he was turned over to Alderman L. C. Mantz, where a charge of breaking and entering was made against him by Roy Miller, who has charge of the property entered. He was released under $300 cash bail for a hearing to be held Thursday afternoon between three and four o'clock.

ADDITIONAL MEN ASK TO DIG OWN COAL AT CROTON STRIP TODAY

Snowy weather didn't prevent scores of willing men from applying for permission to mine coal at the county-operated coal strip in the Croton district today, County Poor Director M. B. Hogue reported.

A large percentage of this morning's work consisted in providing a host of workers with the required credentials.

The strip will be operated until cold weather freezes it up, the director said.

Students in other lands delight in head-cracking riots, also, but they don't wear padded uniforms.

Colored Man Drops Evidence And Runs

Officers Capture Him After An Exciting Chase On Moravia Street

As Detective John Young and Officer Thomas Lynch were on Moravia street in the police car Sunday, they discovered a colored man walking north on Moravia street, who when he saw and recognized the police car, dropped a hot water bottle on the sidewalk and started to run in the opposite direction.

The officers gave chase and captured the man who gave the name of Oscar Maxwell. The hot water bottle was found to contain moonshine. He will be taken before an alderman of the city this afternoon and charged with violation of the Snyder Act.

ARREST TWO ON ROBBERY CHARGE

Officers covered him with their guns and ordered him to put up his hands, which he did.

Carries Revolver.
He was searched and found to have an automatic revolver containing seven loaded bullets. He was taken to the police station, where he confessed, the police say, and told them he had been accompanied by George Leasure of 1137 East Brook street, who he said had his car parked in the rear of Wright's store.

Officers Richards, Moore, Criswell and M. J. Young then proceeded to the East Brook street address, but found the place all dark and no evidence of a machine.

They then went to the home of a brother of the man wanted. There they report, they found George Leasure's car, and on being admitted to the home found Leasure in bed with three children of the household.

Leasure was taken to the police station, where he confessed to having entered the building with Dagres and that they had placed two large cartons of cigars in one of the doorways of the wholesale place so that he could place them in his car.

The officers arrived just at the time and it was he that they had seen running from the building. When the officers shot at him he had thrown away his revolver, he stated to the police.

According to the information secured by the police, the men involved claim to have met in Low-ellville, O., and come to this city. It was first suggested that they hold on a service station in the east side district of the city, but they went to the wholesale place instead.

Charges of breaking and entering and larceny will be made against them some time this afternoon, it was announced by Chief of Police C. C. Horner.

NEW BEDFORD COUPLE MARRIED SIXTY YEARS

An outstanding social event occurred on Saturday November 29, when Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Clark, pioneer residents of West Middlesex celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Ellie Harry, of New Bedford. The event was marked with the serving of dinner at 12 o'clock at a table beautifully and appropriately decorated for the occasion where places were arranged for 39 guests. Also from 2 to 4 o'clock and 7 to 9 o'clock a reception was held when a large host of friends called to extend their congratulations on such a memorable affair.

The lives of this honored couple was one of a lovely romance. At high noon on November 29, 1870 when they were united in the holy wedlock of matrimony by the Rev. Snodgrass, then pastor of the United Presbyterian church of West Middlesex. Mrs. Clark was Alice M. Edeburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Edeburn.

Of this union ten children were born. The first four passed away in childhood. The remaining members of the family are: Mrs. Mary Deenault, of Warren, O.; Mrs. Harry of New Bedford; Mrs. Grace Patterson, Mrs. Fern Nordquist and Harry Clark of Youngstown, O.; and Robert Clark, Stambaugh avenue, Sharon. There are thirteen grandchildren and one greatchild.

For many years Mr. and Mrs. Clark resided on a farm near New Bedford but recently they sold their country home and purchased a residence in New Bedford. Mrs. Clark is 79 years and Mr. Clark is 81 years old, and both are enjoying good health. Mrs. Clark is the oldest member of the Methodist Episcopal church in New Bedford where she takes an active part in church work.

The honored couple were the recipients of a large collection of gifts and a purse of money. Also many messages from their distant relatives and friends.

Business Is Good,
Says Jack Gerson

In all the fifteen years in business, Jack Gerson, Your Jeweler, reports that business was very brisk the first two days following Thanksgiving. This condition, Mr. Gerson states, is exactly opposite from his experience in the same period during the past 15 years. Ten employees were kept busy Friday and Saturday, assisting gift seekers in solving their problems.

Mr. Gerson further stated that people are buying earlier this year, and they're wise, because now we can give more time to individual selections and this is the time when our stocks are most complete.

The Gerson store is featuring the most remarkable values in their history in watches, clocks, diamonds, silverware, leather goods, etc.

FOR FATHER

SO MANY families worry about what to give Father for Christmas. Just why this should be it is impossible to say when Father is so easy to please and there are so many suitable gifts for him.

For example, he might be given a new doormat for the one that is six years old. Or a sofa cushion to match the cushion now on the sofa. Then there is the shade on the bedside lamp in the guest room that the last guest scorched by tilting to one side. A new one would be suitable for Father.

Father would delight in a nice wood basket to sit beside the open fireplace and enthrall over a dozen glass tumblers to replace those broken during the last year. He would surely find much use for a new monkey wrench and a pair of pliers and a saw, and he would get as much benefit as anybody else from a nice new aluminum roaster.

Why not a spare tire for the car and a new pair of gloves to use when he goes down to the furnace? Or, for that matter, a rug for the living room or a new set of shades for the dining-room lights or a brass nozzle for the garden hose, since there seems no longer any chance of the old one turning up? Why not a cover for the telephone book or a flashlight that could be kept in the kitchen so that the cook can find her way to the icebox? Or a vacuum cleaner or a new electric iron?

Surely he could not object to a new clothes hamper, or a potted plant for a centerpiece on the dining-room table, or new shades for the front hall, or an electric coffee pot or a tea tray. In fact, you have only to look at any room in the house to see at once a dozen things that Father needs and needs badly.

If these gifts have the appearance of being a trifle impersonal, the fault can be readily corrected by the addition of a jar of smoking tobacco or a box of cigars or a necktie or two for good measure, marked "With love, from Santa Claus."

HELP WITH THE CHRISTMAS HEALTH SEALS

The Christmas Health Seals are so well known to the people of New Castle that it should only be necessary to call attention to them to insure one of the most prosperous holiday sales on record. The funds thus raised are used in the never-ending fight against tuberculosis. Times of stress and need greatly increase the dangers of this dreaded ailment, and for that reason the charitable inclined are urged to be more generous than usual. It becomes a positive duty for us to do our utmost to prevent the increase of this blighting disease.

In the multiplicity of calls for charity we are apt to become weary of well doing. But there are few who cannot afford to buy the seals, and there are many able to give more substantial contributions to a very worthy cause.

WEATHERING THE STORM

Colossal indeed is the scale on which modern business is conducting its affairs, with New York as its center and the remainder of the country open-mouthed and dazzled.

Such old-time operations as the formation of the United States Steel Corporation, which caused the nation to gasp at the time and set a record that stood for many years, are now commonplace of the business day in Wall Street.

Some exceedingly important combinations have been effected in recent years and some alliances which, while not strictly mergers, have brought together huge associated interests through interlocking stock ownership. In addition to the mergers and amalgamations some remarkable expansions have marked the last three years.

Amalgamation and consolidation are the slogans of the business world today. The effect of recent mergers has been cumulative, one leading on to another in its own or an allied field, so that the impetus already given the movement may be expected to produce new and startling records next year.

There are economists who believe that this trend has saved the United States from an industrial panic this year, pointing out that the large corporations and combines have best weathered the storm of business depression. Neither has the rising tide of bank failures engulfed the institutions involved in recent colossal mergers.

INVENTING THINGS

America's traditional inventive genius set new records during the last fiscal year by giving the United States patent office more work and more revenue than ever before in its long and useful history.

In those 12 months the office received 91,000 applications for patents, granted 50,000 patents and collected $4,000,000 in revenue. It contained its record run of record-breaking years by beating the 1929 record by 4,000 applications.

It is in keeping with the development of the machine age that this bureau should continue operating under high pressure. And it is reassuring to learn that American initiative is not dead, that our inventive genius is sowing the seeds of further industrial expansion and that the human appetite for the new and useful is not to go unappeased.

By far the great majority of inventions upon which patents are granted are commercial duds—the proportion of inventions who have struck it rich being about as large as that of successful prospectors and speculators. But their total contribution to the welfare and happiness of humanity has paid handsome dividends on the energy and time expended. Opportunities for invention are greater today than ever before.

A young but especially brilliant professor in a western college was dismissed from the faculty because of his inordinate betting. The president, interested in his career, secured him a position in an eastern college. To the president he wrote:

"The young man has a promising future, and anything you can do to cure him of betting will be a benefit to society."

The professor went East and was cordially received. Conversation had proceeded but a few moments when he said to the president:

"I'll bet you $75 you have a wart between your shoulder blades."

The president hesitated. "Young man," he said finally, "I never bet; but just to teach you a lesson I am going to take you up."

He thereupon proved to the young man that he was in error and the professor paid the president the $75. And the president wrote West relating the incident, concluding—"I hope that I have cured him."

The other wrote back: "I fear the case is hopeless! The very day he left here he bet me $100 that he could make you take off your shirt."

DO YOU LIKE ALARM CLOCKS?

I DON'T LIKE them. I never did like them. Ever since I was a small boy, I've hated alarm clocks. You can make them pink or green or blue or any color you please. You can pretty them up so they're a joy to the eye—and maybe they'll fool some people—but they can't fool me. Whatever you do with them, they'll still be alarm clocks, and I'll hate the sight of them.

Why? Well, it's my own fault. I'll admit I spoiled them myself, years ago when I was a kid. . . . and had a morning newspaper route. . . . and had to hike out of bed before dawn. . . . and peddle down the street to the Morning Register office and wait my turn for the papers to come off the old flat-bed press.

I couldn't wake up in time, so I'd wind the old alarm clock and set it for 5 o'clock. . . . But I didn't do right by it. It rang and I woke up and then I'd turn over and take a few more minutes of sleep. Sometimes I'd even set it half an hour earlier than was necessary so I'd have just that much more stolen sleep. . . . And finally I became so accustomed to the dingle-dangle of that alarm clock that it wouldn't wake me up at all. I hated it before because it woke me up and at last I hated it because it wouldn't. That wasn't the alarm clock's fault, but I had to hate something, didn't I? Most of us do.

But the deeper reason for my dislike was that the alarm clock reminded me of my conscience, that strange thing inside of us that wakes us up suddenly and refuses to let us loaf on the job. That clock was doing its job, but I wasn't doing mine. It never failed me, but I failed it. It rang, but I refused to listen to it. I told myself I wanted to get up, but I didn't really mean what I said. . . . So instead of blaming myself I blamed the alarm clock and all its sisters and its cousins and its nickel-plated aunts. I injured a faithful, duty-doms alarm clock, so I've had a grudge against alarm clocks all these years. . . . And I've noticed that a lot of other people in this world have grudges against alarm clocks or institutions or people that they've hurt. And I've noticed, too, that people who've let their consciences get hard don't like other people's consciences any more than I like alarm clocks. . . . We're a funny bunch.

Children As Future Citizens
Receive Nation's Attention

Public Believes New Impetus In Important Lines Is Given By Plans And Facts Offered At Conference At White House

Universal appreciation of the value of the White House conference on child welfare is expressed by the country. It is pointed out that information secured offers valuable material, helpful in the training of future citizens.

Previous efforts of a similar character are recalled by the ROANOKE WORLD-NEWS, referring to the initial gathering, called by President Roosevelt, which "startled the nation, with its showing as to child-labor laws in most of the states"; and to the second, called by President Wilson, in 1919, which "centered attention on the lack of educational opportunity over wide areas, and strengthened the movement for public-school extension even into the most remote areas." Observing that the physical condition of the child now receives attention, The World-News credits President Hoover with the purpose to set up "standards of public service," and continues: "The average mother cannot control individually the instruction in the schools, but when the mothers of a community know what to expect, they can set up that standard as an acid test for their public authorities. They can demand a community-wide remedy for the deficient and handicapped child. They can demand better methods for reduction of infant mortality and for prevention of diseases of childhood in keeping with standards already well established, and of proven value, where adequate funds are provided and adequate steps taken for protection of the public health."

The PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE recognizes that, in the present instance, "the preliminary studies gave these sessions chances for reaching conclusions impossible in the case of two previous conferences, that of 1909, which resulted in the formation of the Federal Children's bureau, and that of 1920, which effected pioneer service under the leadership of President Wilson." The NORFOLK VIRGINIAN-PILOT finds that "Mr. Hoover is plainly better equipped to sponsor the present program than any other president," that "he has given the whole movement great strength and encouragement."

"Serious-minded adults came prepared to discard their childish fancies of the weighty matters of infant welfare," and "baby is to be rescued from the untended kindness of his many admirers," according to the MANCHESTER UNION, which declares: "Little more can be done by a conference than to bring to light conditions as they exist, but this may prove a substantial service." The OAKLAND TRIBUNE describes the gathering as "the largest and best qualified body of men and women to give United States welfare," and voices the hope of America that "a great work well started be carried out with enthusiasm and understanding." The OMAHA WORLD-HERALD sees as the objective "equality of opportunity for boys and girls," and concludes as to the experts: "Out of their exchange of ideas, and out of the national attention to the problem, many better days for the children of this land."

"In the merits of its cause, the enthusiasm of its workers, and an amazing record of accomplishment, the campaign for health and protection of children possesses assets which defy appraisal," says the BALTIMORE SUN, while the SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS believes that "to discharge the debt to the little folk is to apply democracy in a new way," and the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER is convinced that "child welfare is to have an increasing amount of attention growing out of the deliberations of this conference."

"The federal government," advises the NEW YORK SUN, "should never seek to assume the responsibilities of parents. Mothers and fathers can be depended on to raise their offspring properly. When knowledge of home training methods is lacking it can be supplied by public welfare agencies operated for the purpose. But the administrative machinery of state and city is responsible for solving many urgent problems of childhood, because society itself creates these problems or child from dealing effectively with them as an individual."

"Valuable advice," which is made available is welcomed by the ATLANTA JOURNAL, which adds as to this result: "Extremely personal though it is, and apt to vary with a myriad of moods and conditions, care of babies ought to take into consideration a great many fundamental and stable factors. Doctors have given much attention, much research, to determining what foods and what regimen are suitable at certain ages and under certain general conditions of health. None of these rules is infallible, but most of them are easily adaptable. Medical opinion has even hinted, factually, that some of the things mother used to consider sovereign are open to question."

New importance attaches to the work in the opinion of the SEATTLE DAILY TIMES, because "in the last 50 years we have herded 50,000,000 human beings into towns and cities, with problems of 'public health, of the need of play fields of fresh air, and of mental, emotional and spiritual well being."

The CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR avers that "the little dweller in the crowded city needs more air to breathe and room to play, needs a cheerful home, at a time when so many social forces are working to destroy the home," and "planted in the midst of an immensity of steel and stone, he needs a poetic sense of wonder in the face of nature."

The LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL warns that "if America breaks down, the break can be traced to this generation, the first one informed on this subject," and the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN argues: "No influence can replace the home, but much of this service children need is beyond the resources of private life, and this is a cooperative duty to supply."

The WHEELING INTELLIGENCER upholds the duty to give proper training for the leaders of the future.

A foreman in a certain factory is in the habit of having an apprentice heat his lunch for him. The other day he called a new apprentice. "Go downstairs and 'eat up my lunch for me," he ordered.

The boy obeyed with alacrity. Ten minutes later the foreman went down. He was hungry.

"Where's my lunch?" he demanded. The boy gazed at him in amazement. "You told me to eat it up and I ate it."

"I didn't tell you to heat it up," roared the irate foreman. "I told you to 'eat it up!"

"Well, I didn't heat it up," maintained the youngster stoutly. "I ate it cold."

RETAIN YOUR SENSE OF VALUES

You visit the home of a well-to-do friend.

You return home dissatisfied, thinking everything in it seems cheap. So you lose interest in the home that you can afford to possess. You blame luck for your small opportunities and your small income.

You don't take a bit of the "blame," as you call it.

You argue that if only you had the chances that these friends of yours have enjoyed all these years, you, too, might be comfortably situated.

Your visit had two bad effects upon you—you don't appreciate your home and you have become sour because of what the fates have done to you.

At the time you purchased your home and its furniture, you were well pleased and felt proud of them. Being the best you ever had and the one you selected yourself, they looked good to you and you, then, had much joy in their possession.

Now that is all gone, and why? Because you have lost your sense of relative values.

Because you want what you cannot honestly procure.

If you cannot enjoy your home for what it is now, certainly you should get comfort in the thought of what it meant to you in the beginning when you purchased it.

found afterwards that his neck had been broken, and that he had received other injuries about the head and body. Barlett was bleeding profusely from a wound above the right eye. Mr. Easley bound up the wound as best he could, and summoned a physician from Edinburg. The physician stitched up the wound temporarily while an ambulance was summoned in which Barlett was rushed to the Jameson Memorial hospital.

Had Pilot's License

Barlett, who formerly lived in Edinburg, began learning to operate an airplane early last spring. He had taken part of his lessons at the Bradford field and had finished at the Butler field. It was while at the Butler field that he had secured his pilot's license.

Interviewed by Coroner J. P. Caldwell at the Jameson Memorial hospital, Barlett said that he and Comstock are students at Westminster college. He is a freshman and Comstock was a junior. They had come down from New Wilmington to New Castle Saturday afternoon and after running around town for a short time, had driven out to the Bradford field. It had not been their intention to go up in a plane when they drove out, but once there Comstock had expressed a desire to have a ride. The matter of renting a plane was discussed and Comstock had said that he would bear his share of the expense. They then decided to go up, and applied to Roy Bradford for a plane.

Plane is Tested.

Mr. Bradford told them that the plane, a monoplane, which they were proposing to use, would have to be tested first. He then called Ernest Meuser, head pilot at the airport, and directed him to try out the plane. Mr. Meuser went up in it and after circling about for some time brought it down. He said that it was working all right.

Barlett and Comstock then took off in the plane, seated side by side. They went in the direction of Edinburg. Arriving there they circled about the town. "When we were a short distance south of the town," said Barlett, "I thought I noticed something wrong with the engine and decided to land as I saw a good field near the Easley home, which is about a quarter of a mile south or southeast of the village. I made a successful landing and taxied along on the ground. The engine seemed to be working all right and I started to rise again."

Strikes Old Tree.

"I was rising nicely and was getting well under way, when I seemed to strike an airport, and the machine swerved slightly. In doing so the right wing struck the top of an old tree, which caused the plane to take a nose dive. As it did so I said to Comstock, 'Here we go.' That was the last thing I remembered until I found myself in the farmhouse. It is awful to think that my friend had been killed. I would rather have been killed myself."

"At the place where I was trying to rise, there is a big hill to the south with some trees on it. I think that the hill and the trees were responsible for the accident. I feel that if the air had been all right we would have got along nicely as the plane was working all right. If we had not struck the tree we would also have been all right."

"Since I have been flying I have operated three different kinds of airplanes, and have never had any trouble before."

Eye Witness Tells Story.

The tree mentioned above was a tall chestnut, which stands on the top of a hill several hundred feet east of the Easley home. The top branches are dead and stand grimly outlined against the sky.

In the Easley home the kitchen is on the east or facing the dead tree, the dining room is west of the kitchen. E. J. Maughan and two others were in the kitchen, while Mr. Easley and several other members of the family were in the dining room.

"I was standing at a window of the kitchen," Mr. Maughan told the coroner. "I had previously seen the airplane circling around Edinburg. It disappeared back of the hill on which the chestnut tree stood. A few minutes afterward I saw it reappearing over the brow of the hill and mounting toward the top of the chestnut tree. I did not know whether or not the pilot saw the tree. If he did he may not have known that he was so close to it."

Wing Hits Limb.

"As the plane came opposite the tree the right wing struck a dead limb which was broken off. The next instant the plane started downward and in less time than it takes to tell it the nose of the plane was buried in our yard. It was so close that one of the wings was within five feet of where I was standing when it stopped. I feel that we all had an extremely narrow escape. If the plane had struck the house, it is likely that some of us would have been killed and the house burned down, as there was a fire in the kitchen and several lamps burning."

"As soon as the plane fell I rushed out with Mr. Easley and the others and assisted in getting the men out of the plane. Barlett was semi-conscious and bleeding badly from a wound above the right eye. Comstock was unconscious. He died soon after he had been carried into the house."

Says Plane Allright.

Ernest Meuser, the pilot who took the plane up for a tryout before it was turned over to the young men, said: "I gave the plane a thorough test and it appeared to be working in first class shape. I visited the scene of the accident today and am of the opinion that the accident may have been caused by Barlett's trying to make a too sudden pickup. From the point where he took off in the field to the top of the chestnut tree would be an angle of about 45 degrees. There is always danger in trying to make a 45 degree pickup. This plane would do it, however, and I believe the boys would have got away safely had the wing not struck the old dead tree. Barlett was able to handle a plane very nicely and is a young man whom I never knew to take any unnecessary chances. Owing to the direction of the wind he may have struck an airpocket when near the old tree."

Plane Inspected.

Roy Bradford, and other members of the New Castle Aircraft company, stated that the monoplane in which the young men had gone up had been purchased at the Chicago airplane show and had given excellent service. It was of the Velle type and weighed 1350 pounds. There had never been anything unusual the matter with the plane, so far as he knew.

"We make it a practice here," said he, "never to let anybody go up in a plane until it has been tested out and the engine warmed to the proper temperature. This was what had been done with the plane used by the young men."

"Mr. Barlett had started to learn aviation here. He was a careful young man. He also flew at the Butler field and it was while there that he secured his pilot's license. I am very sorry that this accident has occurred."

The plane in which the young men went up had been duly inspected by National Department of Commerce, aviation branch, and also by the state department, both of which had issued certificates good until April, 1931.

Comstock a Favorite.

Fleming W. Comstock, who lost his life in the accident, was a talented young man who stood high in his classes at Westminster college. He was a good student, fond of athletics and was a general favorite with the student body. His classmates are filled with regret over his untimely end.

Mr. Comstock was an only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Comstock, who have the sympathy of the entire community in their sudden bereavement.

Young Comstock was a graduate of Mercer high school, of New Castle Business college and was in his junior year at Westminster.

He was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Comstock and besides them is survived by his grandmother, Mrs. Mary A. Boyd, and an aunt, Mrs. James L. Cole, 136 Sheridan avenue, New Castle.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 1:30 from the Methodist church at New Wilmington and interment will be made in the Carpenter cemetery, near Mercer.

NEW SENATOR

Dakota, chairman of the Senate Campaign Funds Investigating committee, would have presented a motion for Davis to "stand aside" until the committee can present a report on the amount of money used in electing Davis.

Morrow's absence was explained by the fact that New Jersey State Canvassing Board will not meet until tomorrow to officially ratify his election.

Davis in Conference.

Davis spent the morning at the Capitol in conference with Republican leaders. It was upon their advice that he did not walk down the broad center aisle of the senate with the other new senators to the oath.

Nye has promised a report on the Davis expenditures within a day or two, and the question of the ex-cabinet officer's status will remain unanswered in that time. Nye said today his investigators had discovered approximately $195,000 in un-audited bills and other indebtedness from the campaign in behalf of the Brown-Davis ticket in the Pennsylvania

"Mother" Jones Noted Champion Of Laboring Class, Taken By Death

Labor Today Mourns Passing Of Woman 100 Years Old, Who Had Colorful Career

Was Known To Presidents Through Labor Activities—End Comes Peacefully

(International News Service) SILVER SPRINGS, Md., Dec. 1.—Labor today mourned one of its spectacular champions. "Mother" Jones, whose eventful career saw her at the front in labor fights covering almost a century, died here last night a few minutes before midnight. She was 100 years old.

Funeral arrangements were to be made today. She had been ill for months and Sunday gradually sank lower, then passed away peacefully.

Leader In Strikes For 60 years Mary Jones was the leader in strikes, appearing on battlefronts in half a dozen states. Her ability to dramatize a situation favorable to her cause, her bravery and great spirit and her vast determination against any odds, made her beloved from the coal fields of Pennsylvania to the mountains of Colorado.

Her activities began at the famous Haymarket riot in Chicago, which she saw in 1886, and ended in 1922, as illness forced her into retirement. No time and place have been generally accepted for the date and place of the birth of "Mother" Jones. She at one time said she was born in Canada and later wrote she was born in Ireland in 1830.

Made May Speeches Her father was Richard Harris, a railway laborer, and Mary Harris taught in a Michigan convent and then taught in Tennessee, where she married an iron moulder. In 1867 her husband and four children died and she went to Chicago to do dressmaking. She joined the Knights of Labor in 1871 and began her labor speech-making. She was a notable figure in the anthracite strikes of 1900 and 1902 and 15 years later was called to Washington by President Wilson to report on conditions in Colorado coal mines.

In New York in 1916 she spoke to a crowd of women, most of them wives of striking carmen, who rushed from the hall to attack a street car manned by strikebreakers.

In later years she was called a "Bolshevist" but she denied the charges and in 1924 assured President Coolidge of her support.

Picturesque Figure "In the death of Mother Jones a unique and picturesque figure has been removed from the ranks of labor," said William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor.

"Even though she has been incapacitated through illness and advancing age her name and her personality has been a great influence in public life and an inspiration to the men and women of organized labor."

"During her entire lifetime she has been in the forefront of labor struggles cheering and inspiring men and women to fight for the cause of organized labor."

"The loss sustained cannot be measured and the services she rendered will never be surpassed or excelled."

"The hearts of the men and women of labor are very sad because millions of working men and women mourn the death of Mother Jones."

Several months ago when labor's "Joan of Arc" realized the life she had given for the betterment of the working people would soon end, she made plans for her funeral, and they will be executed.

A requiem mass will be celebrated at St. Gabriel's Catholic church here and the body will be taken to Mt. Olive, Ill., to be placed in state. Then it will be buried in a plot adjoining Mt. Olive cemetery where five victims of a pitched battle between labor and police on Oct. 12, 1899, were buried.

Young Girls Interested In Sewing Classes

Large Enrollment Of Girls In Sewing Clubs At Ben Franklin Junior High

Although women do not sew and embroider as much as they did in the days of the thirteen colonies, they have not lost interest in the art. This is shown by the very large enrollment of young girls in the sewing, handcraft and quilt patch clubs at the Benjamin Franklin junior high school.

The girls are intensely interested in their sewing clubs and they meet twice a month to work on prettily designed pillow cases, aprons, quilts, rugs, etc.

Then too they are making novelties to give to their mothers for Christmas-holders for spoons, thumbables and sewing supplies. These are made by cutting and sewing a special leather material.

They get along fine with the sewing, according to the faculty supervisors, except that they have some difficulty in remembering to bring needles.

Checker Champ To Be Decided

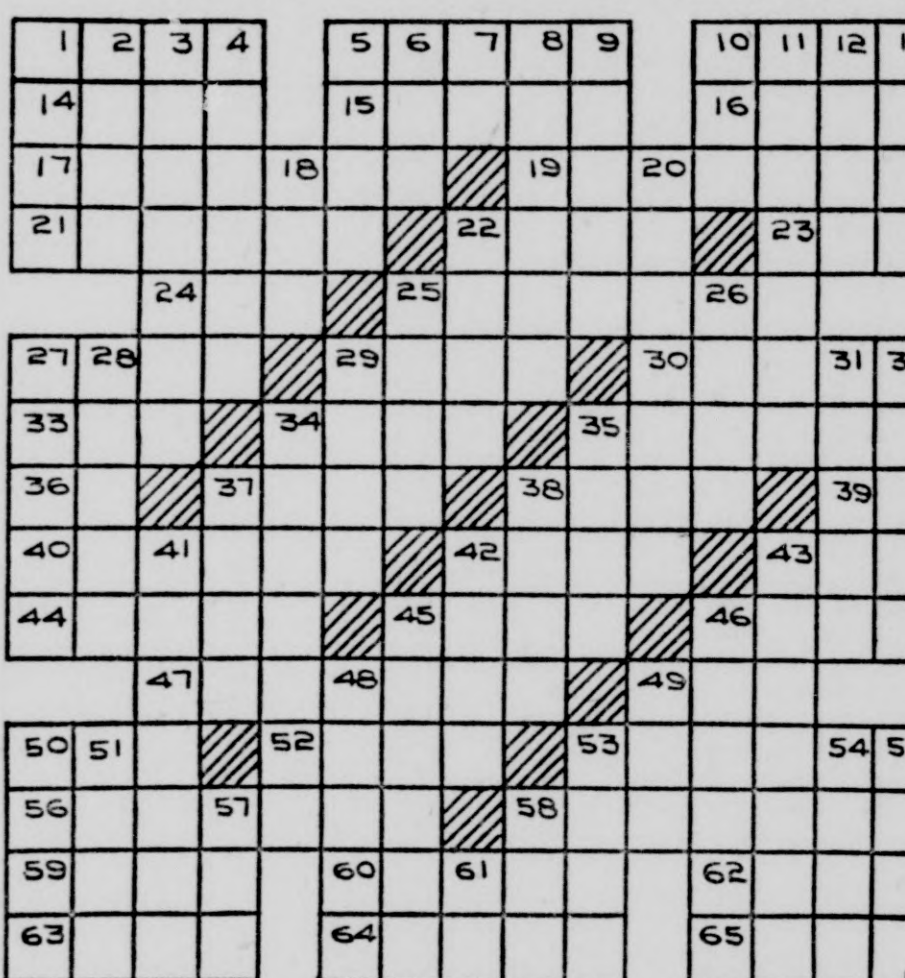

Good Checker Players In Student Club At Ben Franklin Junior High School

One of these days there is going to be a contest at Benjamin Franklin junior high school—a thrilling and very unusual tournament. Ever since school commenced in September, two checker clubs have been meeting regularly every two weeks and as a result there are some checker champs in the making, at that school.

At the present time each of the two clubs is trying to decide which of its members is the best all around checker player. And when they decide that, the two club champions will have a final championship game.

The checker players are most all girls and there are some fine players among them. Besides a championship game, Miss Kennen and Miss Warner, the club supervisors are planning a Christmas party. So taking it all in all, the checker enthusiasts are mighty glad they joined the clubs.

Peter's Adventures

RED ANTS GAIN IN BATTLE
"One less ugly Red Ant to make trouble for the rest of the insects!" exulted Peter, then suddenly remembered his duty. He had hurried to the hill to see what he could see, and not yet had he peeped over the hill's top. Peter's heart leaped to his throat. Red Ant had already reached the Black Ant hill. What was to prevent others being there too? What if he should meet another fierce enemy face to face at the crest? However, this was no time for fear. Peter had made a solemn promise to dear old Busy. It was up to him to keep it. Busy was depending on him for news, be that good or bad.

Grasping his spike firmly, Peter made the best haste he could to the top of the hill. At last he reached his goal. Carefully, quietly he raised himself until he could peep over the crest. Whatever Peter may have thought to see, he was hardly prepared for the sight that now met his eyes. It did not seem very long ago since he had been watching the battle between the opposing tribes of ants from the other side of the hill, yet there had been time enough for a great deal to happen. At first glance, all doubt as to which side was going to win the battle, vanished.

Hunter Is Rescued By Game Warden

Lost All Sense Of Direction After He Had Shot A Deer

GREENSBURG, Pa. Dec. 1.—After having been lost in the vastnesses of the Laurel mountains for several hours Saturday, Fred Austes of McKeesport, a successful deer hunter, was found by Game Warden John Fycke. Austes was exhausted and hysterical as a result of his experiences. The McKeesport hunter had dropped a big doe beyond the Mountain inn and discovered in the excitement of the deer chase, that he had lost all sense of direction and was definitely lost.

Unwilling to leave the carcass of the doe on the mountain, Austes dragged the heavy animal to a small stream, then down the creek bed for a distance of 10 miles. When Warden Fycke traced the man's cries and made his way to him it was almost dark. He found Austes suffering from complete exhaustion. Help was obtained and the hunter carried out to a road and placed in an automobile.

Scottish Miners Stage Big Strike
Estimate 92,000 Scottish Miners Are Out On Strike—Hope For Agreement
(International News Service) LONDON, Dec. 1.—While the strike of 92,000 miners in Scotland got under way, with English and Welsh coal fields working, negotiations between the disputing factions were resumed today in an effort to settle existing differences. The Scottish Mine Workers' Union rejected compromise proposals made by the mine owners and ordered a walkout, but some pits continued to operate.
Temporary agreements between miners from North and South Wales and mine operators as well as truces in other sections staved off danger of near paralysis of the industry. Strong hope was expressed that the shutdown in Scottish mines also would be of short duration.
Two important conferences were to thrash out the difficulties in the Scottish mine fields during the day. The national union of Scottish Mine Workers and the Scottish coal trade conciliation board met by request of the miners to find a way out, while a miners' delegation discussed the problem with mine owners. The British coal mining industry employs approximately 1,000,000 men.

Brenneman Has Cattle In Show

Prize Shorthorn Herd Entered In Exhibition At Chicago Opening Saturday

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 1.—Pennsylvania is strongly represented at the International Livestock Show, America's premier agricultural exposition, which opened its doors Saturday at the Union Stock Yards, Chicago.

Five of the Keystone state's leading livestock exhibitors have sent the choicest selections of their herds and flock to the competition. Contests for superiority in the Hereford cattle division have been strengthened by the nominations of the Ball Hereford Farms of Zelienople, the St. Amour Company of Mortonsville and Pennsylvania State College. The St. Amour farm is nationally known in livestock circles for its prominent winnings in the International in recent years. Also in the cattle competitions will be seen the Shorthorn herd of Charles L. Brenneman of Volant.

A well-known Pennsylvania breeder of draft horses, Frank B. Foster, of Phoenixville, has entered five of his best in the show to compete with the pick of the Percherons of the United States and Canada. Pastors of Pennsylvania is assured of creditable representation with the four brands of sheep entered by Pennsylvania State College. The college livestock judging team is also present, as are two Dauphin county boys, M. K. Brandt, Paul R. Gates, as the punier judging team from the state, with a third boy from the same county, Roy Koons, as alternate.

The state is also well represented in the grain and hay show, in which the state college looms as a possible competitor for first honors. Several exhibitors from central and southern Pennsylvania have entered in both classes, one of the best representations at the International in recent years.

Church Clock Now Ready For Service To Public

From now on, when you look up at the bright faces of the First Christian church clock you can trust to what you see as correct. According to the electrician in charge it is all "jake" now—perfect and in fine running order.

Some time ago a defective spring was sent away to the factory to be replaced. The spring is now in place in the tower of the clock, the clock was set this morning and is off for many years of service to the public.

Local people who chanced to glance at the clock at about ten o'clock this morning probably thought they were witnesses to a phenomenon. They did witness an unusual occurrence, but it wasn't an inexplicable fact. True, the hands of the clock did spin around the circumference of the face at the rate of 24 hours a minute—but it was done purposely by the electricians. They were testing it.

The writer looked up at the clock at 10 o'clock and noticed that the hands began to move and when the writer left after a moment or two the clock indicated 12 o'clock. But it is O. K. now and never again, unless for a mighty good reason, will the splendid new church clock falter.

Construction Of Viaduct Is Urged At Once

Rev. C. S. Joshua In Sermon
Last Evening, Asks
That Project Be
Started

AGAIN CONDEMNNS
OTHER BRIDGE PLAN

Asserting that there is no excuse for delaying the construction of the Neshannock viaduct, Rev. C. S. Joshua, pastor of the Croton M. E. church, urged from his pulpit last evening that plans for such a structure be drawn immediately and that the viaduct be built at once.

Rev. Joshua's sermon was a follow-up of the one preached two weeks ago, when he stated that the viaduct should be built as an unemployment measure.

Additional facts were presented last evening substantiating his claims in behalf of the citizens of the Croton district.

Commands Progress

Rev. Joshua took his text from Proverbs, 29th chapter and a portion of the 18th verse, "Where there is no vision, the people perish." Modernizing the theme, he said the meaning he wished to convey, was that where there is no vision, the people suffer.

In part, Rev. Joshua said: "The church is not interested only in the redemption of man. Redemption is a big word with a wide meaning. I would love to be responsible if I could, for the redeeming of the world from want and misery. The world is crying out for someone to redeem it."

"We are here tonight, men and women, interested in our city. The church stands for everything that spells progress."

"We wish to command those men who represented us at the waterways meeting, seeking to bring about improvement of our streams which would enable our local industries to compete on a more favorable basis with those in other sections of the country, and provide work for our men here in New Castle."

"Is not the church interested in helping men to obtain employment? The more work a man has, the better it is for the church and his family. It means prosperity, success, and happiness."

"I make no apology for bringing facts to the people from the pulpit. Following my sermon two weeks ago, I attended other meetings in which these things were being discussed. I made reference to the building of this viaduct. Some of the statements I made were denied, and others were doubted, and it calls for a further discussion on my part."

A Mistaken Man
"I was told that a grand jury had never approved the viaduct. A grand jury has approved the project, making such a report on June 9, 1928, after a public hearing on the subject. There is no sense in denying such a statement of truth. How should anyone question or deny this fact, when the records prove it. Yet a representative citizen of this city told me I was a mistaken man."

"Everything necessary for the undertaking of this project has been done as far as its legality is concerned. If anything, I want to be a Christian gentleman, and I ask from this pulpit tonight that Mr. Gilkey, the county engineer be asked drawing plans for this bridge, at once."

"I was told the other day that it would cost two and a half million dollars to build it. Mr. Gilkey himself, testifying before the grand jury which approved the project, says it would cost $400,000. Other men who speak from authority say that it will cost between $250,000 and $400,000."

"Lawrence county has 74 millions in assessable property. The tax rate is between six and seven mills. This brings in about $400,000 each year. In New Castle proper, the assessed valuation is around 54 millions and the tax rate 12 mills. This brings in $640,000 each year. In all, more than a million dollars is collected from the tax payers of the city and county. It would take only four months taxes to pay for the bridge if it cost $400,000. It would not be necessary to increase taxes to pay for it."

Quotes McCullough

"I am quoting County Commissioner McCullough, and he says he is willing to be quoted. 'The only salvation for the relief of the traffic question in New Castle is the building of the Neshannock viaduct. That is the opinion of our county commissioner.'

"The safety director of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company recognizes the danger of the grade crossing at the foot of Croton hill. Anything that will remove that dangerous death trap is worthy of consideration. We always wait for a tragedy before we act."

"They tell me that a few years ago, a dear girl started out across those tracks and didn't make it. I ask if any girl has ever been killed on Lawrence street, because of a grade crossing. Only a few weeks ago, a car slipped and skidded over the hill and the people were rushed to the hospital. Cannot we visualize because of the occurrences of the past, that something like that is going to occur again in the future."

"I say with all the earnestness of my soul. Build the viaduct before it is too late."

"An attorney of this city said to me, 'Don't you know you are advocating something that will be a mile and a half long? The viaduct would only be 635 feet long. It will connect points from the east with those of the west, and all roads leading from these sections would be joined on a high level traffic route which would take people out of the main section of the city.'

Rev. Joshua then repeated arguments which have been previously advanced, of the traffic within the city between various sections would be expedited by the bridge. How the hospitals, cemeteries, the fair grounds and other points could be reached without going down into the heavy traffic and narrow streets of the business section."

Should Hang Head

"In the light of these facts I have presented, any man who is in favor of the Lawrence street bridge, should hang his head in shame. A perfect ridiculous waste of money. It doesn't eliminate any hazards."

"An ordinance was passed September 4, 1925, providing for approaches to the viaduct by the city; the county appointed viewers and they voted favorably on the project. Many prominent citizens gave favorable testimony before the grand jury. The city zoning commission and planning commission have endorsed and recommended."

"I have officiated at the funerals of two men from this congregation who had hoped they would live to see the day when they could pass over this viaduct. I repeat and urge that the viaduct be built before it is too late."

"Is the church interested? Certainly it is interested. My Lord has been at my side through storm and strife, through the greatest of dangers, and I know he is approving this message in the interests of our children, our doctors, the harrowing experiences of life."

"I urge that the only project that should interest our officials is this viaduct, and again I ask that plans be drawn and ask that the citizens who are in favor of the Lawrence street bridge cease their efforts in its behalf."

Auto Accidents Reported To Police

E. L. Stewart of 305 Fern street reported to the police Saturday evening that he was enroute east on North street, when a car bearing Pennsylvania license 32P46 going in the same direction, hit and damaged his machine.

D. W. Hoover of Wampum R. D. No. 2, reported that he was enroute east on Croton avenue and crossing East Washington street, when a car bearing Pennsylvania license 786 or 768 and going west on Croton avenue and making a left turn onto Washington street, hit and damaged his car.

BANISHED MANY ILLS

Every day more people vouch for the amazing power of Ten Herbs in relieving disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

MRS. LAVE SHAFFER

"I want to add my name to those who are praising Ten Herbs, because of the way your medicine benefited my whole system," said Mrs. Lave Shaffer, R. D. 6, Box 301, New Castle. "I had indigestion so badly that I could eat scarcely anything without being distressed with gas and bloating. Even the most wholesome food disagreed with my stomach. Sometimes the gas caused a soreness in my stomach and made such a pressure and heaviness after a meal that I could hardly breathe. My liver must have been disordered as I felt drowsy and sluggish and was inclined to fall asleep during the day. My appetite was poor. I had headaches and there were pain in the region of my kidneys. Ten Herbs was so beneficial to me that I had to stop my medicine and it helped me, too. My appetite improved and food began to dig in better than it had for a long time. I got more nourishment from what I ate and gas, bloating, indigestion and nervousness disappeared. My liver and kidneys are benefited. I became free of that distressing feeling and gained strength. I also got relief from headaches and the pains in my back. Ten Herbs helped me so much that I do not hesitate to recommend your medicine to others." Ten Herbs is sold at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 E. Washington St. and all leading druggists throughout this entire section.

Local Funeral Firm Introduces Car Markers

The Book-Leyde Mortuary, of this city, announces a valuable and distinctive addition to its service, in the form of flags to identify each car in the funeral procession.

This mark of identification was made necessary by traffic conditions, and absolutely prevents cars not in the procession from unwittingly joining it, or cutting through the procession to the embarrassment and inconvenience of the mourners.

The markers which the Book-Leyde Mortuary will employ are small white flags upon a short metal staff, and are attached to the left front fender of all cars in the cortege by means of patented rubber-protected clamps which cannot injure the finish of the car in any way.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—Never in her age-long history has London been the scene of such building activity as that which has taken place in the last decade.

In the ten years a quarter of a million new buildings have sprung into being, and the appearance of the capital has been greatly changed.

Slum areas have been swept away and replaced by more commodious and more hygienic erections; old offices and shops have given way to new, enlarded and far more spacious and beautiful structures.

During the ten years more than 240,000 houses have been erected

However, the skyscraper has not yet made its appearance. They regard a ten-story building over here as being "really" high.

STOLEN CAR FOUND BY CITY POLICE

THROAT SORE? Heed this Warning:

Any inflammation of the throat can spread very fast. Don't go to bed with "just a sore throat." It may be tonsillitis by morning! It takes five minutes or less to gargle with Bayer Aspirin. This simple precaution may save you days of suffering. It not only relieves all soreness, but reduces the infection. Three tablets crushed in 1/2 tumblerful of water; physicians say there is no more effective gargle. See proven directions for colds, headaches, neuralgic pains, etc. Get genuine Bayer Aspirin; effective, harmless.

Bridgeville Home Damaged By Blast

Man Asleep In Home Is Uninjured—Police Probe Planted
Dynamite Charge

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 1.—William Muicci, alias Billie McGooch, was hurled from his bed and narrowly escaped death today when a mysteriously dynamite blast blew his home to bits at Bridgeville, ten miles from here.

The home, a small but luxurious bungalow, had just been completed.
Today was Muicci's second day in his new dwelling.

Surrounding communities were rocked by the blast. Muicci dug himself from the wreckage of what had been a handsome bedroom to find the bedroom was the only portion of the house that had escaped complete demolition.

Muicci expressed mystification when questioned by county detectives. He said that he had no known enemies of the bomb throwing variety.

The charge of dynamite had been planted under the house and directly under one of the bedrooms.
Muicci owes his life, detectives said, to the fact that last night he chose the other bedroom.

Dr. Cooper Gives His Testimony

Case In Federal Court Is Nearing Conclusion Today

MAY REACH JURY THIS AFTERNOON

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 1.—Calling Dr. John H. Remig, prominent Philadelphia physician, to testify as a rebuttal witness in an effort to offset testimony offered by the defense government today concluded its case against Dr. Edwin S. Cooper, of New Castle, charged with violation of the Harrison narcotic act through the issuance of narcotic prescriptions not compatible with professional practice.

Having rested before rebuttal by the prosecution, Attorney Harry Link, petitioned the court to order a directed verdict of acquittal for the defendant. Judge F. P. Schoonmaker overruled the request.

Taking the stand in his own defense, Dr. Cooper testified that the 64 prescriptions on which the government was prosecuting were issued by him in the legitimate practice of his profession and in good faith.

With the exception of one prescription, each order issued to Mrs. Pearl Dando, of Youngstown, government witness, was written while either the woman, or Joseph Dando, her husband, was present in his office, the doctor said.

On cross-examination by Zeno Fritz, assistant United States attorney, Dr. Cooper testified that he was able to tell from an objective examination of the patient what disease was indicated by the symptoms exhibited.

The physician testified that when Mrs. Dando appeared at his office for a prescription for morphine tablets, she told him and acted as though she was afflicted with excruciating pain. Each prescription issued by him called for eight quarter-grains of morphine, the minimum amount which he deemed sufficient to lessen the woman's pain, Dr. Cooper said.

Dr. Remig testified he has been a practicing physician in Philadelphia for the past 39 years. He said that for the past 11 years he has been employed as chief inspector of the Pennsylvania Department of Health under the direction of the State Bureau of Narcotics.

The Philadelphia physician testified that no pain was caused by the illness of which Mrs. Dando complained when she visited Dr. Cooper to secure the alleged prescriptions.

Dr. Remig said that morphine tablets could not be considered a remedy but were prescribed only to relieve intense pain. He said that in illness similar to the one with which Mrs. Dando suffered, where the patient was a drug-addict, it was necessary to rely to a great extent upon the patient's own statements to the physician in the diagnosis.

On cross-examination Dr. Remig repeated that Mrs. Dando should have suffered no pain during her illness. The physician explained in great detail the effects of various drugs and derivatives of drugs together with the symptoms and effects of illnesses similar to the one with which Mrs. Dando suffered.

Opposing counsel were to make their closing remarks to the jury after which Judge Schoonmaker will charge the jurors. The case was expected to reach the jury this afternoon.

Family Away As Fire Brings Ruin To Denver Street Home

A stubborn fire, of unknown origin, kept firemen from two companies busy over three hours early this morning, ruined a two-story frame home and practically all the household furniture of Ernest V. Peaker, of 429 Denver avenue.

George Thomas, Ellwood road, owner of the building which he said was worth $4,000, declared that the roof shingles alone were the only remains that escaped the ravaging flames. Peaker said the furnishings ruined in the five rooms were valued at about $1,000. Fire Chief Lynn estimated the damage to building and contents at $1,700.

The Peakers were away from the house at 1:25 a. m. today when firemen were called by neighbors Mrs. Peaker and four children were staying with relatives and the husband, an insurance agent, had gone to Leesburg to settle an insurance claim.

The building and contents were insured, it is reported by the owner and tenant.

Firemen laid 550 feet of hose.

Motions Presented And Orders Made

Viewers Appointed On Matter Of Vacation Sections Of Road On Route 350

Orders on motions and petitions were made, and arguments on cases listed on the trial list were heard by Judges Hildebrand and Chambers at court today.

In the estate of the late William H. Cox, Executors Sarah C. Cox, Lewis Cox and John B. Waddington presented a petition relative to the exchange of some property of decedent, located in Lawrence county and in Venango county. The exchange was said to be necessary in order to settle the estate. A hearing will be held on December 22.

In the case of Fred W. McBride against the American Equitable Assurance Association, time was extended for the filing of an affidavit of defense.

Petitions were presented to the vacation of a number of sections of route 350, which has recently been improved from Wurttemberg to Portersville. Portions of the road which it is desired to vacate are rendered useless by a change in the location of the road. It was asked that a portion of the road near the residence of Albert Karsh be retained. The court appointed J. Roy Mercer, Alex. Main and William F. Davis as viewers.

Arguments were heard in the case of Joseph A. Rocco against John W. Tilia. The case grew out of an accident on the New Castle-Ellwood road in which a verdict was rendered in favor of the plaintiff. Defendant asked for a new trial and for judgment notwithstanding the verdict.

Don't Neglect Books For Christmas Gifts, Says Parent Advisor

Better Buy One Or Two High Grade Volumes Than A Number Of Cheap Ones That Are Poor Reading

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.
Head Division Parental Education
Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

On choosing Christmas gifts for children don't neglect books—beautifully illustrated story books from which to read to the child from two to seven, and high grade books for older ones.

Better to buy one or two of high grade than a large number of cheap ones. Several books given all at once are not desirable anyway, as a rule. There are so many cheap and trashy things for children in bright but often inartistic colors. Often such books have the poorest kind of reading matter in poor print for children who can read, and poor quality from which to read to younger children. Then there are the countless linen books for preschool children. Don't put them into the hands of a little child. Give him a well illustrated book and show him how to use it carefully. Always be with him and the book until the book is safe with him alone and choose the one from which you are going to begin to read to him beautiful things he will want to hear over and over again. If you just give him a book he cannot injure how is he to learn to handle one that must be used with care?

Write at once a postcard to the American Library association, 520 North Michigan avenue, Chicago, Ill. for a list of books, stating the age of children for which you wish to choose. Go to your nearest library and ask the librarian to show you best books for children. You may want to take the child with you. The librarian has nothing to sell. She has only one concern that children shall have the best books there are. Remember, too, that the library books are free for use by you and your children; all the more reason why you should, when buying, purchase only the best, supplementing them with other good ones from the public library.

Don't depend on the advice of the average clerk in a store to tell you what to buy. Of course there are some very high grade book stores and high grade book sections at good department stores. Such can give you wholesome guidance and they have many books for you to inspect. In choosing books for school age children don't overlook the many self-teaching materials now available. Many public schools have such librarians, and most teachers can give good advice on choosing books for children.

Then there are some good magazines for children. Ask your librarian to show them to you also. Some are on the new stands. Among them are "Children's Playtime," "Junior Home," "Child Life," "John Martin Book," "St. Nicholas," "American Boy" appealing to different ages about the order indicated.

On buying books for other parents keep in mind the many good ones which have been written on child guidance and parent problems. E. C. Groves, Douglas Thom, M. V. O'Shea, Alfred Adler, Blanton and Blanton, Blanche Weill, Mary Sayles, Leta Hollingworth, Jessie C. Fenton, Dorothy Fisher, Ada Arlitt, Paegre and Anderson, Arnold Gesell and Garry Myers should be safe brands. Go to your library and examine some such books before you buy them. You may find others you will like better. Some wives choose good books as Christmas presents for their husbands and some husbands choose them for their wives. Not a bad idea.

Piles Go Quick

Thousands of Pile sufferers have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves or cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation and strengthen the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonard was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own druggist with a rigid money-back guarantee.

Dr. Leonard's prescription has a wonderful record of success right in this city and McKee's Kut Rate Store or Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc. invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID and guarantees to refund the purchase price if it does not end all Pile misery.

THE QUESTION BOX

CENTRAL PRESS WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions on information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O., and enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions, nor will the estimated value of old coins be given.

What is a ouija board? A ouija board is a device sometimes used in amateur spiritualistic seances as a means of answering questions. It consists of two parts a board containing the alphabet and other characters and a planchette with a pointer substituted for a pen. When one or more persons place their hands lightly upon the planchette it is said to move about the board beneath pointing out and spelling the answers requested.

What statue of Christ was made from bronze obtained by melting down old cannon and where it is situated?

In 1902 Chile and Argentina were making preparations to go to war over a boundary dispute but through the efforts of the women and the clergy they were persuaded to settle the matter by arbitration and use the money thus saved to improve roads and harbors. The women of both countries, led by Senora Angelina de Ovejuna Cesar de Costa of Argentina, raised money for a statue of Christ, made from bronze obtained by melting old cannon taken from Spain in the War of Independence. This statue was set up on the highest accessible point on the disputed boundary and is known as "The Christ of the Andes." It is 26 ft. high and on a tablet at the base is this inscription: "Soon shall these mountains crumble into dust than Argentines and Chileans break the peace to which they have pledged themselves at the feet of Christ the Redeemer."

What materials are used in making writing ink?

Ordinary black writing ink is a compound obtained by the action of ferrous sulphate on an infusion of nutgalls or any similar compound containing tannin and is essentially a ferrous-feric gallate. The color is due to the oxidation of the iron salt and its combination with the gallic acid in the solution. In order to obtain a deeper black logwood and indigo extracts are sometimes added.

What was the origin of the Christmas celebration? The institution of the Christmas festival, the day on which the nativity of Jesus Christ is observed, is sometimes attributed to Telesphorus who flourished in the reign of Antoninus Pius (138-161 A. D.) but this is unhistorical. It is unknown just when it originated, but surely December 25 was not generally observed as the day prior to Christ's birth time (Fourth century) in the eastern church, although much earlier in the western. Christmas trees, the custom of reciprocal presents and Christmas meals and dishes, originated at a later period.

Canning Factory Subject Up Again

District's Unlimited Possibilities Are Pointed Out By Advocate Of Plant

The New Castle district's possibilities as a fruit and vegetable canning center, a topic of discussion in the past, are emphasized by John Hartschneider, New Castle R. D. 1, a truck farmer, who believes the advantages here for a canning factory are unlimited.

Abounding in natural advantages that foreshadow those found in districts where canning plants are operated profitably, the New Castle district is believed by Hartschneider to be the plausible scene of a good factory where vegetables and fruit could be canned and marketed with little overhead expense.

The limited expense of operation is believed possible, due to the location. The country, for instance, is held as a suitable farming area where all vegetables needed for canning can be raised. Besides, the presence of tin plants and can making plant adds to the desirability of the district. The freight on both vegetables and tin cans can be saved, it is asserted by advocates of the canning factory.

In past years talk of establishing a co-operative canning factory has not been lacking. Advocates assert that the plan can be put in actual practice with little expense. Large factory buildings will be unnecessary; the vegetables are here; the manufactured cans are here.

Hartschneider says he will do all in his power to start such a plant. He wishes to hear from persons interested in such a venture.

State Leads Nation In Building And Loan Associations

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 1.—Pennsylvania ranks first in the country both in the number of building and loan associations within its borders and in the relative assets of these organizations, according to a survey published by the department of labor.

In 1929, the last date for which such figures have been compiled, there were 3,901 building and loan associations in Pennsylvania, with total assets of $1,400,000, the survey shows.

These associations in the Keystone State in 1929 had 1,650,000 members, and reported mortgage loans outstanding to the extent of $1,200,000.

New Jersey ranks second to Pennsylvania in the number of organizations of this type but is surpassed by Ohio in regard to their total assets.

There were in 1929 in the United States a total of 12,342 building and loan associations, with 12,111,209 members, assets of $8,695,154,220, and mortgage loans outstanding amounting to $7,787,405,383.

December 1, 1930.

ON DISPLAY TODAY

The Ford Victoria

A NEW FORD BODY TYPE OF DISTINCTIVE BEAUTY

TODAY, a new Ford body type of distinctive beauty is on display by Ford dealers in this city and throughout the United States. It is called the Victoria and is distinguished by many features of design, comfort and convenience. It marks a new degree of value in a low-price car.

The striking lines of the Ford Victoria are especially apparent in the graceful sweep of the straighter, lower top, the slanting windshield and the curving bustle back, with the spare wheel set at a conforming angle. There is a suggestion of continental design also in the shape and size of the side windows and the intimate four-passenger seating arrangement.

As you open the door and step within the car you will be impressed by the dignity and richness of its appointments. Many details of finish reflect the mode and manner of a custom-built automobile.

The deeply cushioned seats are carefully tailored and upholstered in luxurious mohair or Bedford cord, optional with the purchaser. Both of the individual front seats have form-fitting backs and fold forward. The rear seat is low and comfortable, with side arm rests that contribute to easy riding. Satin-finish hardware gives a quiet touch of brightness.

Eat Liver For Anemia, Says Doctor

Dr. Clendening Cites Modern Treatment For Disease

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Requests for information and letters from all parts of the country indicate that the modern treatment for anemia is not well understood. In spite of the splendid and even magical results of this treatment (introduced five years ago) and in spite of the wide publicity that treatment received in the press, many people who have the disease do not know the details of the new treatment. Since the disease can be nearly always controlled by this method, and in its absence or neglect is progressively degenerating information about it should be made public frequently.

The key to the problem was discovered by two Boston physicians, Drs. Minot and Murphy. It is simplicity itself. It consists in eating liver.

How much? Two hundred fifty grams of raw, or about a pound of cooked liver.

How often? One a day. For how long? As long as you live. How long does it take for improvement to begin? About 10 days.

How do you know when you are better? The color of the skin becomes healthy, the lips and tongue get red, strength increases and appetite, stomach and bowels return to more normal conditions.

But, I don't like liver. In fact I can't stand it. You are not alone, that tortured cry arose like a chorus from all parts of the country.

Answer: The active substance of liver can be obtained in the form of "Liver Extract." This is a sort of sandy powder put up in bottles like a medicine. It does not taste like liver, but rather like coarse salt. The dose is 3 to 6 bottles a day.

"Liver extract is too expensive for me."

Answer: There is another substance put up like medicine in bottles called "ventriculin." It is about one-third less expensive than "Liver Extract." It is just as good.

What is ventriculin? It is the power made from dried stomach lining (mucosa).

Is liver or "liver extract" or "ventriculin" good for all kinds of anemia? No.

How can you tell whether the anemia a person has is the one they are good for? This will be discussed tomorrow.

Why should liver be good for anemia? This will be discussed tomorrow.

Why should dried stomach be good for anemia? This will be discussed tomorrow.

But even ventriculin is too expensive and I can't stand liver. What can I do?

This will be discussed day after tomorrow.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Four pamphlets by Doctor Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each, and a self-addressed envelope to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are "Infant Feeding," "Reducing and Gaining," "Instructions on the Treatment of Diabetes" and "Hygiene of Women."

We fully expect, when Congress gets down to this appropriation problem that some statesman will rise and demand a census recount.—The Milwaukee Sentinel.

Magda Draws Large Crowd On Sunday

Biblical Play Put On By Young Peoples Council Scores Distinct Success Sunday Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 1.—The Biblical play "Magda" which scored so successfully some time ago when presented in Pittsburgh by the local young people in connection with the regional conference, was given again last night in the First Presbyterian church and attracted a crowd which filled every available space in the auditorium and Sunday school room.

The plot centered about "Magda", played very capably by Miss Grace Brown, and "Doubling Thomas", a character that was put over in a most realistic manner by Harold Burns, who seems thoroughly at home in any role, be it in musical comedy or pageantry. "Magda" tries throughout the action of the play to convert the skeptical Thomas, and at last wins him over to God. The two leads were ably supported by the Morrison twins, Cecil Barlow, Dorothy Tomb and Chester Wilson.

The entire service was in the hands of the Young People's Council, with Miss Mildred George in charge of the program and Mrs. June Adams reading the Scripture. A double quartet furnished music for the play. The fact that crowds came through the miserable sleety weather last night testified as to the high merits of the play "Magda" and the Sunday afternoon service, to be congratulated on its success, both in Pittsburgh and in Ellwood City.

A head of lettuce in the snow in the back yard at the Groves home led the police to make an examination of the premises, and they found merchandise valued at about $50 in the home, they told Justice of the Peace R. E. Nevins, of Zelenople, who issued warrants for the arrest of Groves and Richards.

Threat Of "War" In Air, As Baseball Men Gather
In Montreal Today

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Sports Writer

(International News Service)
MONTREAL, Dec. 1.—Threat of "war" between the two major leagues and five of the leading minor circuits loomed today as delegates assembled here for the convention of the National Association of professional baseball leagues. The conflict, unless quickly averted, figures to cost the combatants plenty of money. Some estimates run it into millions of dollars.

Buying, selling and interchange of ballplayers and the price thereof, an issue technically known as the universal draft, is the crux of the trouble.

Relations Severed
Midnight tonight is the "deadline" in one important phase of the impending battle. After that hour all business relations between the major leagues—National and American, and the "Big Minor" class AA organizations, the American Association, International league and the Pacific Coast league, and the class A minors, the Western Association and the three I league, are to be automatically severed.

After that time limit, the majors threaten to refuse to buy or sell, release or send out on options players to any of these five minor circuits, the reason for this drastic action being their refusal to accept what is known in baseball as the universal draft.

The trouble over the draft problem, now at a crisis, explains why last week was a busy one in baseball trades. The New York Yankees took three players from Jersey City, sending one to the Pacific Coast league and another to the International. The St. Louis Browns took Russ Young, a catcher, from Milwaukee and gave four players in exchange. The Detroit Tigers obtained catcher Jack Grabowski from St. Paul of the American Association in a player and cash deal. All these transactions had to be completed before midnight tonight.

Laterra Will Aid Friedman Tonight

When Al Friedman, of Boston, heavyweight, takes up his stand on the resined floor at the Motor Square Garden, Pittsburgh, for his bout with Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City, heavyweight, the chief second in Friedman's corner will be Robert "Bob" Laterra, local officer and fight manager. Laterra has had considerable experience in handling fighters, and will stand Friedman in good shape tonight for the grueling battle that awaits him.

Give Medal To Hero For Saving Woman

(International News Service)
KANSAS CITY, Kas., Dec. 1.—The heroism of C. W. Murray, a railroad worker, in plunging into the icy waters of the Kaw river to save the life of Mrs. Flossie M. Comstock, a would-be suicide, has been rewarded with a bronze medal and $1,000 by the Carnegie hero fund commission.

Although clothed in heavy winter garments, Murray dove from a bridge into the river and was able to bring the woman above the water until help arrived.

Both Murray and the woman were unconscious when taken from the river. The rescue occurred December 20, 1928.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Where Tony Ross, heavyweight mingling with today's heavies there is no question but that he would be conspicuous. He fought many of the best in his heyday. True, Tony would fight as best he could only when he desired but when he desired to fight Tony could fight.

They tell a story of a humorous nature about Tony. He had boxed in New York and when Jimmie Dime was accounting for the receipts Tony was to draw. Dime remarked: "—and five percent out of the gate for the Comish." Tony "Comish? Who's this Comish? I never heard of him."

Dan Dailey was another heavyweight who fought among the "mushroom crop" which followed the pugilistic demise of Jeffries. Dan came half a dozen years later to display his wares. His first feat of notice was to flatten the late Al Palmer at Pittsburgh. He fought a terrific fight with Jom Coffey, the Irish giant.

After Tom McMahon had outpointed Jess Willard at Youngstown, Buffalo promoters booked Dailey. They squared off in the Buffalo ring and it appeared as though Big Dan had Willard licked. In one of the few rounds he had Willard on the verge of a knockout. He was too timid to follow up. Willard recovered and "kayod" Dan.

And now that Dailey's feat of nearly knocking out Willard only to succumb to a soporific, recall the battles between Al Reno and Louie Severio here. They were fights in which heart counted. They were like bobbins' corks. Up one minute they were down the next. Recall also the Auskings-Severio punchfest. It is unlikely that many local fans will get another chance to see as torrid a fight as that staged by Frisco Grande and Luis Carpenter. They did not stop for a moment. Another good fight was that between Willie Davies and Midget Wolgast. What they lacked in punch was made up with science.

All of the courage, however, is not displayed in pugilism. Courage stands out bounteously in football, basketball and baseball. Take a pitcher, Crispanese with one out, three on the paths and a heavy hitter up. It takes a steel nerve to occupy a pitcher's box. But unless one has courage, he is lost.

Only Saturday the feat of Frank Carls was recalled. He was not a popular pitcher with the fans and as a strict manager, the players were not all behind him. Nevertheless he won his first game and then took the second. The feat of battle caused his teammates to forget their differences and teamwork won.

Patsy Brannigan, the fiery redhead, 15 years ago was asked by the writer: "Do you think you can beat him?" Brannigan at that time was matched to battle at Trinidad, Colo., and though we forgot the name of his foe, we recall he was rated high: "Beat him? If I didn't think so, I wouldn't fight him" Pat answered.

It appears as though McClymond, forward for the Third United Presbyterian team of the B division, Church League, may prove one of the outstanding bulbs of the circuit this season, should he continue the pace he set Saturday night when the Third U. P. conquered Central Christians, 32 to 20.

McClymond scored 10 field goals and shot two points from the free throw line. In a previous game, when the Third U. P. clashed with First Baptists, he was well covered and kept from lobbing any of the plays into the basket. Saturday night, however, he played like a wizard in the second half.

Johnny Lewis Michaelson, Sharon lad who was knocked out by Tommy Arnold here, isn't over the knockout yet, but is, morally, a winner of a second chance. Tommy made short work of Johnny, but Michaelson has himself partly to blame for being kayoed.

He said his weight was 142, and when he crawled into the ring he weighed around 135. Arnold came in around 142. The extra weight Tommy carried was aided by the fact that Johnny had gone on the road the morning of the fight. Had he a manager versed in the game he would not have made either of these moves.

A letter from Al Lippe to the New Castle fans invites them to journey to Pittsburgh tonight to see Al Friedman and Emmett Rocco in their third encounter. Lippe is well liked here. He fulfills every promise and is making money with Friedman, who goes to the ring once every week.

In this respect Friedman is like the late Harry Greb. He believes constant action in real contests is the best training method. Not so long ago Dick Daniels, a rising youngster, rolled him for a count in the first round at Minneapolis. Al got up from the floor and outpointed Dick.

Gregory proved the ace for the Central Christians when they dropped a B loop basketball game to Third United Presbyterians Saturday. He caged two field goals in each of the halves and Melder got the other field goals. All their other points came from throws from the foul line. Smith made five of six.

Croton had three tries from the free throw line and scored none. They got their eight points from field baskets by C. Wallace, Eakin, Eckard and Whitman. Rogers, Hodge, Smith, Offutt and Cannon made the points for the losing Highland U. P. against Wesley, who won. Dinsmore and B. Wallace were the only scorers for Second U. P., who lost to the First Baptists.

"There's no doe been seen around here" And again: "I've seen numerous doe around here." Those are the conflicting stories brought back from the doe and deer country by the hunters who set out Thanksgiving day to seek doe, the season for which is closed.

Numerous hunters from this section are in Forest county and other sections where the deer are supposed to be. Most of them generally go to the mountains and get the lowdown on where they cross, then post themselves. The hunters are ever hopeful. Some get a deer the first day and some never get a shot.

Judge Jenkins Faces Big Task

Youngstown Jurist Starts Reading
Thousands Of Wards
Merger Case

(International News Service)
YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Dec. 1.—The stupendous task of reading thousands of words contained in a transcript of the testimony in the suit instituted by Cyrus S. Eaton to block the merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Company will probably delay Judge David G. Jenkins' opinion until January or February, of 1931, it was indicated today.

Judge Jenkins of the common pleas court, who heard testimony in the legal battle, was devoting his entire time to the reading of the mass of documents in the suit. Literally, tens of thousands of words must be read and understood before the jurist can make public his opinion.

Cases that under normal conditions would have been scheduled for Judge Jenkins' court have been docketed on the trial lists of visiting jurists called in from other counties for the emergency situation.

Big Monument Is Crumpled By Auto

(International News Service)
LIGONIER, Pa., Dec. 1.—Because John Evans fell asleep, Ligonier's picturesque historical monument erected 15 years ago by the Pennsylvania Historical Society and the Sons of the American Revolution is a crumpled mass of ruins today.

Evans, en route home from Pittsburgh to Virginia, fell asleep at the wheel last night.

His machine crashed into the monument, sending it crashing to the ground.

He was arrested on a reckless driving charge.

GLASGOW, Dec. 1.—With the Scottish coalfields paralyzed by a strike of 92,000 workers, efforts by the Scottish coal trade conciliation board to bring about an agreement between miners and operators met with failure today.

Requested by the miners to find some way out of the dispute, the board adjourned this afternoon without having reached a decision.

Two Children Are Burned To Death

Mother And Baby Severely Burned, As Fire Destroys
Home Near Wilkes-Barre

(International News Service)
WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Dec. 1.—Two children were burned to death and their mother and her seven-month-old baby were critically injured today when fire destroyed their home in Luzerne, a suburb.

Melvin, 2, and William Zimm, 4, were sleeping directly over the kitchen, where an overheated stove set fire to furniture. The flames swept through the home, a double structure.

The mother, Mrs. William Zimm, 25, wrapped her small baby, Theresa, seven-months, in a blanket and leaped from the second story window after finding herself unable to save her other two children, sleeping in an adjoining room.

The bodies of the boys were found, burned beyond recognition, on the first floor of the house, after its collapse.

A man prepared has half fought the battle—Carvantes.

Temperature In November Is Above Average

Deficiency In Rainfall Is Also Noted Increasing Year's
Lack Of Moisture

November proved another abnormal month in more ways than one, a summary of the weather statistics for the month by Weather Observer B. F. Johnson reveals.

The mean maximum temperature of the month was greater than the average producing an excess of nine tenths of a degree in the mean average temperature for the month. The mean maximum in November was 51.4 degrees, the mean minimum was 29.3 degrees and the mean average for the month was 40.6 degrees. The highest temperature recorded was 72 degrees on November 22 and the lowest was 4 degrees on November 29. The greatest daily range was 40 degrees on November 11. The normal mean average for the month is 39.7 degrees, last month thus showing an excess of nine-tenths of a degree above the normal. In November of 1929 it was 39.4 degrees a deficiency of three-tenths of a degree, in spite of the fact that the highest temperature recorded in November 1929 was 74 degrees. The cold snap during the latter part of the month in 1929 lasted longer this year, however, and the temperature reached 1 above zero on November 29.

The Shenango river froze over solidly enough for men to walk across this year, but this fact is attributed to the lower water stage. During the cold spell in November 1929, the river depth was between 7 and 8 feet, and the flow was much more rapid than this year.

The precipitation during November this year was 1.38 inches. The greatest fall in 24 hours was 34 inches on November 30. There was 3.5 inches of snowfall during the month. Eighteen days produced .01 inches or more of precipitation. There were six clear days, 12 partly cloudy and 12 cloudy. The normal precipitation for the month is 2.16 inches, the deficiency in November this year being .78 inches. In November of 1929 there was 4.07 inches of precipitation, an excess of 1.91 inches.

School Art Work Accorded Praise

State Director Here, Says New Castle Is Bright Spot
In State

New Castle's public school art work will get plenty of space in the opening of the Farm Products building in Harrisburg in January, according to Dr. C. Valentine Kirby, art director for the state who is in the city today inspecting the New Castle classes.

"The work you are doing in New Castle stands out as one of the bright spots in the state," said Dr. Kirby. "Without any reflection upon any other school I can say that nowhere in the state is there better work being done, and this I attribute to the work of your art supervisor, Miss Emilie Eakman."

"The poster work here is one thing that stands out in bold relief. The New Castle students are given a thorough foundation in art work in the lower grades so that when they come up to the upper grades they have a keen appreciation of what they are doing."

Dr. Kirby is taking back a large number of pieces of art work done in the New Castle schools and these will be on display in the new Farm Products building at the opening show. The building is to be used for various state wide exhibits and has long been needed in the capital city.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Stock Market Today
Dull And Spiritless

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Stocks marked time at the beginning of the new week in the same dull and spiritless manner as at the end of last week. The re-opening of congress introduced new problems to the financial district, but Wall street was inclined to look on the bright side of the legislative picture. No new light was thrown on the business situation, and in the absence of definite signs of recovery from Saturday's closing price. Disappointment with Oil production prorations pointed to the prospect of a breaking out of heavy Crude Oil flows in Texas and Oklahoma, thus upsetting the oil men's conservation program. Oil stocks sold off fractionally, but displayed no special weakness. Call money renewed at 2 per cent.

Highway Department
On Lockout To Help
Motorists In County

As flurries of snow began to blanket roads in Lawrence county early this afternoon during the biggest snowstorm so far this winter, H. W. Lightner, supervisor for the department in Lawrence and Mercer counties, announced that a continuation of the storm will send workers to clear the highways.

This afternoon the department was awaiting word from county road caretakers to ascertain the extent of the snow. Lightner said that if the snow continues to fall trucks will be dispatched to clear roads and workers will dump ashes on the "bad" spots.

Professor Albert Einstein, Famous Mathematician To Tour United States

Denies Reports That He Is Working On New Theory That Will Startle World

By WALTER DIETZEL
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright 1930 by International News Service)

BERLIN, Dec. 1.—I am not going to lift the world off its hinges with some new theory which nobody understands anyway.

With these words, Professor Albert Einstein, world-famous mathematician who was described by George Bernard Shaw as one of history's seven "creators of universes" bluntly dismissed reports that his forthcoming visit to the United States might find him engaged upon some new and staggering problem of the infinite.

The stocky, curly-haired scientific genius, bustling and excited, made the statement to International News Service just before he boarded a train for Antwerp, where he will board the liner Belgenland for his three months' sojourn in the United States.

Is Understood Here
"I am going to America," the saint declared, "merely as a guest of the University of Pasadena. My trip is for the purpose of visiting a few Americans who really understand my old theory of relativity and compare the results of our investigations."

In his conversation with International News Service on the railway platform, Professor Einstein revealed that he was leaving Berlin with one regret—that he had been forced to leave his beloved fiddle behind. It has always been his greatest joy when, fatigued by his arduous labors in the realm of the infinite, to seek solace and relaxation in music.

"I would have loved to take it along," Dr. Einstein said, "but I was afraid the tropical climate of Panama would ruin it, so I had to leave it at home."

Accompanied by Wife

The German scientist left Berlin in the company of his wife, his assistant, Dr. Walter Meyer, and a secretary. He had one bit less luggage than most travelers, for he carried no lucky piece or talisman.

"I leave superstition to my fellow-beings," Professor Einstein said when asked whether he was taking a lucky charm with him.

Probably more at home than any other living man with the profound mysteries of the universe, Dr. Einstein confessed that such a comparatively simple problem as crossing the Atlantic and visiting the United States trouble him greatly.

Afraid of Receptions

"I fear," he said, "this trip will be more difficult than anything I have ever done. I am not going to get off the boat until I reach California. I will not leave the steamer in New York where the ship will remain three days, and I hope New York will understand."

"I will issue a statement to newspapers on my arrival, but I want to avoid public functions and crowds. I have received scores of invitations from public institutions and hotels, begging me to stay in New York, but I am feverishly afraid of receptions."

It was suggested to Professor Einstein that the admiration expressed by millions of people for him everywhere, especially by the masses who do not understand his complicated theory of relativity, was due to something more than idle curiosity.

Is Very Popular

"If it is true that I am so popular among people who understand nothing about my work, then it is luck," he said with characteristic modesty. "But I can understand this interest."

"We are living in a highly materialistic age and the whole world is seeking objects and personalities it can worship. Any man of standing in public life can suddenly become the object of worship of the masses."

"That I am this object now is just luck. Any other man who is doing big things in the world may also at any time become the object of the same attention and admiration."

Professor Einstein disclosed that he had no fear of encountering a stormy passage at this season of the year.

"I am a much better sailor than I am a scientist," he said with a smile. I get my best inspirations when I am on the water. My hobby is to ride in a boat. I have my own sailboat on which I spend weeks at a time.

Refuses Discussion

The scientist was reticent to discuss the new theory on which he has been working for the last year, and which many have predicted, to use his own words, "will lift the world off its hinges."

"I have not yet reached definite results," he said. "All my calculations are still pure theory and I am not sure it will lead to anything at all."

Dr. Kaiser, the scientist's son-in-law who was on hand to bid him farewell, said definitely Professor Einstein would not deliver any lectures while in the United States.

"He is somewhat nervous and it would be too much of a strain," Dr. Kaiser said.

Attempt To Rob
Marlin Store

Robbers who entered the Marlin store, 204 South Jefferson street, some time during the night, had thoroughly ransacked the dry goods part of the store and had boxes and sacks packed with huge quantities of the goods, preparatory to hauling it away, when they were evidently frightened away without accomplishing their purpose.

As far as has been determined at this time, there is nothing missing. Had the robbers accomplished their purpose, the major part of the stock valued at thousands of dollars would have been taken.

The robbery attempt was investigated by Captain of Police J. Ed. Elder and Officers Moore and Criswell, who found that entrance had been gained by breaking the glass from a rear door.

Two Albino Deers
Reported Shot By
Greensburg Men

(International News Service)
GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 1.—A rare quarry was bagged by two local nimrods today when George Ripple and Daniel Kinsey brought down a pair of albino deer while hunting in the mountainous districts north of Ligonier.

Both deer were good specimens, the buck bagged by Ripple having seven point antlers.

Although many albino deer were reported seen by hunters today, Ripple and Kinsey were the first to report actual kills of the species.

The Decision

The court held for Farmer Hawkins.

The judges reasoned thus: The second section of the statute of frauds provides that no action can be brought on any contract for the sale of lands unless that contract is made in writing and filed by the party making it. This transaction clearly fell within the statute. It should have been in writing.

Chinatown Raided In Philadelphia

Seventeen Held Prisoners By Police Following Raid On Chinatown

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1.—Seventeen prisoners were held by police today following a gaming raid on Chinatown at the insistence of University of Pennsylvania officials.
Persistent reports that Chinese students had been losing large sums of money to fellow countrymen operating gambling houses here, led to the complaint to the police.

The bluecoats stormed an alleged gaming establishment near Race street and the entire oriental section was thrown into an uproar. The police were forced to chop their way through three huge oaken doors.
The raiders arrested Louis Pei as the proprietor and 16 others as frequenters of the alleged gambling den.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations
Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Some days ago, the swamp at Custards received some attention from William Sandman came here and with information concerning it. It seems that Mr.
Sandman has gone into the history of bogs and swamps and comes through again today with a letter on their formation and commercial value. The letter follows:

Dear Sir:
In answer to your request of the 26 for some post glacial information,
I regret to say there is very little to be said from a geological point of view.

All our rock and coal formations were laid down in pre-glacial times and the topography of the earth has changed very little since the glacial period. It has been estimated that by natural erosion, the surface of the earth is lowered about one foot in 5000 years.

But to get back to the bog. I will quote the Encyclopedia Britannica regarding formation and commercial value. Bogs are very common in the temperate zones, Europe having 212,700 square miles, Ireland
285,815 acres, Canada 3,000,000 acres and the United States 2,000,000 acres. The plants which form bogs are aquatic consisting of reeds, rushes, sedges and mosses.

It seems that the disintegration of the vegetable tissues are effected partly by moist atmospheric oxidation and partly by anaerobic bacteria, yeasts, moulds and fungi in depressions containing fairly still but not stagnant water which is retained by an impervious bed of underlying strata.

As decomposition proceeds, the products become waterlogged and sink to the bottom of the pool. In the course of time the deposits attain a considerable thickness and the lower layers under the superin-cumbent pressure of the water and later deposits are gradually compressed and carbonized.

The most favorable condition appears to be a moist atmosphere and a mean annual temperature of about 45 degrees Fahrenheit. No bogs are found between 45 degrees north and 45 degrees south. The product of bogs always contain much water, up to ninety per cent. Also many valuable by-products such as paraffin, tar, acetic acid and ammonia.

It has also been exploited as a source of commercial alcohol to be used in motors. One process yields 25 to 26 gallons of spirit per ton, still another yields 40 gallons of spirit and 66 pounds of ammonium sulphate per ton.

Yours truly,
William Sandman.

An interesting letter and thoroughly removes any ideas that the glacier was responsible for the swamp that is baffling the highway department. Thanks a lot Mr. Sandman for your interest in the matter and also for the time necessary to dig out the information.

One sidewalk sales game that has

KNOCK THAT COLD IN A JIFFY

Here's Relief Almost
Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to take chances on.
Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.
Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up; poisons leave your system. Almost before you know it, you feel like a new person.
If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now. You'll be surprised at the speed with which it works. Costs only a few cents.

Truck Driver, Caught Under Overturned Machine, Burns To Death

Man Is Burned To Death When Truck Is Upset

George Hoagland, 30, Loses His Life On Dangerous Curve At New Bedford

TRUCK IS LADEN WITH GROCERIES

Believed That Truck Must Have Skidded And Then Upset In The Gutter

Another fatality was added to a long list of accidents at New Bedford this morning when a truck, driven by George Hoagland, 30, Market street, Youngstown, O., overturned on a curve in front of the Presbyterian church and caught fire. Hoagland, in a closed cab, was unable to extricate himself. His body was badly burned.

Hoagland was alone in the truck, and nobody knows exactly how the accident occurred. Samuel Ekis, who lives near the curve, has his alarm clock set for 5:30 in the morning. The alarm had just gone off, when Mrs. Ekis saw a light from the blazing truck. Ekis ran out and found the truck overturned against the bank in front of the church. The cab, and whole front end of the truck was on fire and the flames were spreading toward the back end.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Electric bills are going up for some this yuletide. As you walk down East Washington street at night the colorful light displays on a few of the buildings can't help but take your attention. Noticed several other building owners were getting lights strung upon their buildings today.

They took light steps, for theirs was a precarious crossing. Three boys—out for a thrill no doubt—chose the thin ice covering of the Shenango river to cross at the P. & L. E. depot instead of the West Washington street bridge. Pa New watched eagerly and expected to see them wade out. But they made it.

Anybody got a truck they're not using nowadays? Out at the coal strip where men are digging tons and tons of coal for themselves and other needy families, they could use them. Competent drivers will be furnished if necessary, and the best of care will be taken. It's a worthy cause, and would be a real help to many folks.

December is here and now there is a straight-away to Christmas and the holidays.

Local streams rose rapidly over the week end, due to the heavy rain of Saturday night and Sunday. A great difference was noted in the Neshannock creek, while the Shenango is not expected to show any great difference for another day or so.

Local residents, returning home from church last evening, were treated to a heavy fall of "the beautiful." Flakes as big as half dollar.

Police Check March Of Communist Mob On National Capitol

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—A miniature riot was staged in the capitol grounds today just as Congress assembled for the opening of the session.

New Wilmington Youth Is Killed In Plane Crash

Fleming W. Comstock, 18, Loses Life In Plane Fall Near Edenburg

ARTHUR BARLETT, PILOT, INJURED

Plane Hits Tree And Takes Nose Dive To Ground—Lands Near House

Fleming W. Comstock, aged 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Comstock of New Wilmington, was killed, and Arthur Barlett, aged 18, son of Rev. and Mrs. S. H. Barlett, also of New Wilmington, was painfully injured, when an airplane operated by Barlett, struck a tree, took a nose dive, and fell near Edenburg about 5:30 Saturday evening.

Comstock's neck was broken; Barlett received a ragged wound over the right eye, and had one leg pierced near the knee by a brass rod. He was brought to the Jamestown Memorial hospital.

The plane landed and buried its nose in the ground within 20 feet of a large farm house, occupied by E. A. Easley and family. Members of the family, numbering a half dozen or more, had very narrow escapes, as the wings of the plane were within five feet of a kitchen window at which several were standing when it fell. The plane was standing on end, with its nose buried in the earth, when it came to a stop.

E. A. Easley, E. J. Maughan and other members of the family who had witnessed the accident, immediately rushed out to extricate the men from the plane. They found that the engine had been stove up to within six inches of the seat. The men were caught in the wreckage in such a manner that it was with difficulty that they were taken out. Comstock was unconscious and Barlett was in a semi-conscious condition when taken out. They were carried into the house.

Protest Lodged With Nanking Government By American And British Officers

International News Service Staff Correspondent

PEIPING, Dec. 1.—Forty Chinese soldiers attempting to rescue an American woman held for ransom by bandits in the interior of Kansu Province were killed in an attack upon the Marauders, messages received here today stated.

Urgent medical assistance was requested for the American missionary, Mrs. H. D. Hayward of 4217 Fifth street, Seattle, accompanied by Miss E. Gomersall, the British nurse, she was on the way to the hospital here when held up at Paotao and robbed of all clothing in bitterly cold weather.

Information received from a Swedish rescue party active in trying to rescue the women said that eight Mongol warriors have been assigned to guard the captives, with a force of 500 bandits in command of the vicinity near Lanchow.

A rescue party of American and British army officers was in Paotao today to press Chinese officials into action to secure immediate release of the captives.

A formal protest also will be laid before the Nanking government in regard to the brutal treatment to which the women were subjected.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Falling gavels within and flailing police batons without sent the 71st Congress away today on its dying session.

Both houses met on the stroke of noon and at the very moment of assembly police were having their hands full outside the chambers endeavoring to disperse a mob of Communists who attempted to invade the Capitol with revolutionary banners.

Shots were fired and tear bombs used with telling effect, while the roll calls were proceeding inside.

Crowded galleries, looking for a thrill, witnessed the get-away, but it was drabber than usual.

Mountain Farmer Loses His Bride, Also His Savings

Matrimonial Agency Bride Turns Out To Be Big Crook—Takes $2,000

(International News Service)
NEW HOPE, Pa., Dec. 1.—Edward Conrad, 59-year old Jericho mountain farmer today was mourning the loss of his youthful bride of a month and $2,000.

The bride, Bernice Brewer, of Salem, Ind., was obtained through a Connecticut matrimonial agency, Conrad revealed.

Hardly had the marriage taken place, Conrad said, than his wife asserted she would have to have a boudoir, a washing machine, a radio, and lot of other new things. He bought them all, Conrad admitted in hopes of making his new bride happy. Then she insisted his savings be placed in a joint-account. The next day she disappeared with $2,000.

In requesting the police to try and trace Bernice back to Salem Conrad made it clear he doesn't want his wife arrested. He'd rather have her back, he said. If she won't come then he wants the $2,000.

Illinois Policemen Surprised By Gunmen—Two Other Officers Wounded

(International News Service)
MACOMB, Ill., Dec. 1.—Two police officers and a lone gunman who attempted to kidnap one of the policemen were dead today following a spirited gun battle that took place in front of the police station.

Two other policemen were shot and wounded, one probably fatally in the affray that followed when the gunmen drew a hidden revolver from his sleeve.

Policemen Edward Whittlesey, 60, and Ernest Borman 34, were killed in the battle. Officers Al Links, believed to be dying, and Luther Jackson were wounded before the gunman was killed.

The assailant was identified as Edwin Vreil, of Canton, Ill., formerly a gambler of Peoria, Ill., according to police.

Five Youths Held In Death Of Girl At Gary, Indiana

Former High School Girl, Drunk At Party, Attacked By Five Young Men

MURDER CHARGES HAVE BEEN FILED

Youths Admit Attack—Investigation Started By Police Officials

(International News Service)
GARY, Ind., Dec. 1.—Charged with attacking and murdering Arlene Gwendolyn Draves, pretty 18 year old Emerson high school graduate, five youths were under arrest today. One of them is said by police to have confessed to the attack after they had attended a wine party with the girl.

Virgil Kirkland, former high school football star, made a statement, authorities said, in which he admitted he and the four others had attacked the girl. All five can be tried on first degree murder charges, according to Indiana law.

Induced To Drink.
The party was attended by a number of former high school athletes and their wives and girl friends. Police were told that Miss Draves was induced to consume the wine.

Kirkland in his asserted statement said he carried Miss Draves out to an automobile for some fresh air. Later he was joined by the other four youths under arrest, Leon Stanford, 21; Henry Shirk, 24; Paul Barton, 21, and David Thompson, a city fireman, Kirkland said.

They then drove to a restaurant and returned to Thompson's home where the party was in progress. Police believe the girl had died before they reached Thompson's home.

Full Probe Planned.
The youths became alarmed when they could not revive the girl and went to Dr. R. O. Wharton's residence where she was pronounced dead.

Deputy Coroner C. A. Owens said there were indications the girl had been choked. Cerebral hemorrhage and shock caused her death, he said, and evidence pointed to the fact that she had put up a desperate battle with her assailants.

Promising a full investigation police Chief Stanley Buckland blamed "poisoned liquor" for the tragedy.

Old Farmer Hawkins was known as a shrewd trader, and he was constantly trading in this farm or that one. Indeed, it was said that he spent more time trading farms than farming. One day Farmer Hawkins agreed with Bill Hooks of the same town to sell him a tract. The arrangement was that Hooks was to pay a certain amount in cash and the remainder at stated times and in stated amounts. Hooks took possession of the land. Hooks hadn't been on the land long himself before he received an offer for half of the tract he had. At Hooks' request Farmer Hawkins conveyed the half to the buyer and Hooks retained possession of the remaining half. But a little later Farmer Hawkins came to Hooks and said that he had a customer for the other half, on which Hooks was living, and that if Hooks would turn that part back to him he could give Hooks a handsome profit on the deal. Hooks agreed cheerfully. Hawkins sold it at a substantial profit. But when Hooks went to Hawkins and asked for the amount promised, Hawkins had forgotten it, and refused to be reminded of it. He argued that any promise he might have made should have been in writing, and since it was merely verbal, he could not be held. Hooks sued.

lars fell copiously, but the ground was so wet that most of the snow melted as fast as it hit the ground.

While the rain over the week end will have little effect on springs and wells, it raised small streams considerably, and farmers who are hauling water from these sources are rejoicing. It would take at least a week of steady rain to start springs flowing again, many farmers state.

Local deer hunters who were out during the special doe season reported these animals plentiful. Many of the animals will be more wary because of the shooting in deer territory during the past week, and those who bring back a buck will earn their game.

With the end of the special doe season Saturday, many hunters started out today to kill the bucks. Many refused to take advantage of the doe season, claiming they could get no sport out of killing the females. The animals will be more wary because of the shooting in deer territory during the past week, and those who bring back a buck will earn their game.

Due to the sudden change in weather conditions during the night, some of the highways were quite icy this morning in spots. Some of the hills were ashed early. Improved roads north of New Wilmington were reported as quite icy early today.

Christmas saving fund checks totaling $323,000 are being sent out this week by six banking institutions of New Castle. The money released will probably give a lot of stimulus to business during the next week or two.

In a local dental office this morning Pa Newc noticed a lemon plant in a flower pot. Not an unusual sight, but this is what did look strange—covering the earth in the pot was a layer of plaster paris. "Why?" Pa Newc asked. "To keep pesky little flies from eating up the plant," was the reply. And it works, too, for flies don't care so much for plaster paris.

Pa Newc is told that there have been more marriages in Ellwood City in the last several weeks than during the nicest days of June. Hy-men, god of marriage, must be working overtime in that section of the country. "Ray for Ellwood!"

Officials said, it would have little effect on the kill.

Half a million licenses have been issued to hunters, the commission reported, but fully 80 per cent of them were to small game hunters who were not expected to be in the field today.

Last season, 22,822 bucks were killed during the deer season, but the number is expected to be smaller this year, game officials said. No figures are yet available on the number of doe killed during the special three day season but state game officials believed cold weather cut down on the total, as many hunters kept to their camps during the cold snap.

Admission to the bleachers on the western side of the field will cost 50 cents.

The fund raised through the football game will be administered by the special committee named for this purpose by the school board consisting of W. J. Offutt, Mayor W. H. Gillespie and Dr. C. C. Green, superintendent of schools.

Parochial Schools to Share.
The parochial schools of the city will receive their share of this fund as well as the public schools.

Selection of the alumni as an opponent for the high school team was determined upon when it was found that no high school opponent could be secured without paying out an exorbitant guarantee.

With the alumni playing, the expenses will be almost negligible and a much larger sum will be realized for this relief fund the committee in charge of the contest believes.

If the weather is favorable, it is hoped to have the stadium filled next Saturday. A great many of the fans have been clamoring for this game and they should now show their appreciation by boosting the game as much as possible.

A real contest should result, as quite a number of the players who will be selected on the alumni team will be chosen from boys who are recent graduates and who are now making names for themselves in the larger colleges of the country. In addition to others who have dropped out of the game and are not attending school anywhere at the present time.

Urges Support of Fans.
Sergeant and Connery are now hard at work selecting the aggregation which will represent the old grads, and hope to announce the personnel of their team within the next few days.

The committee in charge of the game asks the loyal support of every football fan in the city for this contest, as it will mean relief for many children, who are now attending school undernourished because their parents are unable to provide them with even the bare necessities of life. The relief will be administered through the schools.

A committee named by Dr. Green is already at work investigating cases which have been brought to the attention of the school authorities, and those who are deserving will be assured of help during the coming winter.

PAYROLL APPROVED
Councilmen in session today at city hall approved the payroll of city employees. Pay day is December 3.

EGYPTIAN OBELISKS AS ASTRONOMICAL INSTRUMENTS
By Arthur DeV. Carpenter.

Many of the Egyptian obelisks in ancient days were used as astronomical instruments called the gnomon, with which most remarkable results were realized. One of these results were the known height, erected perpendicular to a given horizontal plane, served to show by its shadow the time of the day, and the annual journey of the sun northward till the longest day was recorded when the shadow of the gnomon was shortest. Then again the final shortest day of the year would be indicated when the gnomon recorded the sun's shadow at its longest.

Thus the entire year was measured, and the obliquity of the ecliptic recorded. Central Park, New York City, displays an Egyptian obelisk.

McClennahan, who with a number of others, was soon on the scene. They made frantic efforts to put out the fire, but without result. Constable McClennahan, as soon as he learned that the driver of the truck had lost his life, called Coroner J. P. Caldwell and an ambulance.

When Coroner Caldwell arrived he found a load of groceries, which had been on the truck, burning briskly. Canned and bottled goods were bursting with explosions like shots from guns, making it dangerous for the men who were trying to get the body of Hoagland out.

Body Is Recovered.
The truck belonged to the Mutual Transfer Company of Youngstown, O., and was laden with groceries for A. and P. stores in this city. It was followed by another truck, belonging to the same company. When this truck, driven by Elmer Truitt, arrived, a chain was secured and Truitt pulled the chassis of the burnt truck out, but the load and the truck body remained in the gutter.

The truck was loaded with canned goods, bottled goods, sugar, coffee and various other groceries, some of them of a very inflammable nature. They made a hot fire and it was nearly an hour after the fire was discovered before the charred body of Hoagland was recovered. The body was taken to Youngstown.

Thoughtful Careful Driver
Thomas Watt, manager of the Mutual Transfer Company, was on the scene before the body of Hoagland had been recovered. He told the coroner that Hoagland had left Youngstown about 4 o'clock this morning. He had been in the employ of the Transfer Company for some time, and was considered a careful driver.

Hoagland had driven the truck to New Castle numerous times and was familiar with the curve at the Presbyterian church. There was a thin film of ice on some sections of the road this morning and there may have been enough ice on the curve to have caused the car to skid. It overturned on the side next to the church, which would be on the opposite side from that on which Hoagland was driving.

Hoagland was a married man and leaves a wife and two children. Several persons have lost their lives and there have been numerous accidents at the New Bedford curve.

Man Breaks Into Seventh Ward Place

Officers Hagan and Suber in patrolling seventh ward district last night, discovered that a window had been broken by a man in gaining entrance into a former bowling alley on North Liberty street, next door to the White Star Restaurant. The place is still in the place.

The officers investigated and found Rudolph Bachofner of the seventh ward, hiding in the place and placed him under arrest. He was under the influence of liquor and had some moonshine in his possession.

This morning, he was turned over to Alderman L. C. Mantz, where a charge of breaking and entering was made against him by Roy Miller, who has charge of the property entered. He was released under $500 cash bail for a hearing to be held Thursday afternoon between three and four o'clock.

ADDITIONAL MEN ASK TO DIG OWN COAL AT CROTON STRIP TODAY

Snowy weather didn't prevent scores of willing men from applying for permission to mine coal at the county-operated coal strip in the Croton district today, County Poor Director M. B. Hogue reported.

A large percentage of this morning's work consisted in providing a host of workers with the required credentials.

The strip will be operated under cold weather freezes it up, the director said.

Students in other lands delight in head-cracking riots, also, but they don't wear padded uniforms.

Colored Man Drops Evidence And Runs

Officers Capture Him After An Exciting Chase On Moravia Street

As Detective John Young and Officer Thomas Lynch were on Moravia street in the police car Sunday, they discovered a colored man walking north on Moravia street, who when he saw and recognized the police car, dropped a hot water bottle on the sidewalk and started to run in the opposite direction.

The officers gave chase and captured the man who gave the name of Oscar Maxwell. The hot water bottle was found to contain moonshine. He will be taken before an alderman of the city this afternoon and charged with violation of the Snyder Act.

Officers covered him with their guns and ordered him to put up his hands, which he did.

Carries Revolver
He was searched and found to have an automatic revolver containing seven loaded bullets. He was taken to the police station, where he confessed, the police say, and told them he had been accompanied by George Leasure of 1137 East Brook street, who he said had his car parked in the rear of Wright's store.

Officers Richards, Moore, Criswell and M. J. Young then proceeded to the East Brook street address, but found the place all dark and no evidence of a machine.

They then went to the home of a brother of the man wanted. There they report, they found George Leasure's car, and on being admitted to the home found Leasure in bed with three children of the household.

Leasure was taken to the police station, where he confessed to having entered the building with Daggers and that they had placed two large cartons of cigars in one of the doorways of the wholesale place so that he could place them in his car.

The officers arrived just at the time and it was he that they had seen running from the building. When the officers shot at him he had thrown away his revolver, he stated to the police.

According to the information secured by the police, the men involved claim to have met in Louisville, O., and come to this city, up a service station in the east side district of the city, but they went to the wholesale place instead.

Charges of breaking and entering and larceny will be made against them some time this afternoon, it was announced by Chief of Police C. C. Horner.

Brenneman Has Cattle In Show

Prize Shorthorn Herd Entered In Exhibition At Chicago Opening Saturday

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 1.—Pennsylvania is strongly represented at the International Livestock Show, America's premier agricultural exposition, which opened its doors Saturday at the Union Stock Yards, Chicago.

Five of the Keystone state's leading livestock exhibitors have sent the choicest selections of their herds and flock to the competition. Contests for superiority in the Hereford cattle division have been strengthened by the nominations of the Ball Hereford Farms of Zelienople, the St. Amour Company of Mortonville and Pennsylvania State College. The St. Amour farm is nationally known in livestock circles for its prominent winnings in the International in recent years. Also in the cattle competitions will be seen the Shorthorn herd of Charles L. Brenneman of Volant.

A well-known Pennsylvania breeder of draft horses, Frank B. Foster of Phoenixville, has entered five of his best in the show to compete with the pick of the Percherons of the United States and Canada.

Pastoral Pennsylvania is assured of creditable representation with the four brands of sheep entered by Pennsylvania State College. The college livestock judging team is also present, as are two Dauphin county boys, M. K. Brandt, Paul R. Gates, as the junior judging team from the state, with a third boy from the same county, Roy Koons, as alternate.

The state is also well represented in the grain and hay show, in which the state college looms as a possible competitor for first honors. Several exhibitors from central and southern Pennsylvania have entered in both classes, one of the best representations at the International in recent years.

Church Clock Now Ready For Service To Public

From now on, when you look up at the bright faces of the First Christian church clock you can trust to what you see as correct. According to the electrician in charge it is all "jake" now—perfect and in fine running order.

Sometime ago a defective spring was sent away to the factory to be replaced. The spring is now in place in the tower of the clock, the clock was set this morning and is off for many years of service to the public.

Local people who chanced to glance at the clock at about ten o'clock this morning probably thought they were witnesses to a phenomenon.

They did witness an unusual occurrence, but it wasn't an inexplicable fact. True, the hands of the clock did spin around the circumference of the face at the rate of 24 hours a minute—but it was done purposely by the electricians. They were testing it.

The writer looked up at the clock at 10 o'clock and noticed that they began to move and when the writer left after a moment or two, the clock indicated 12 o'clock. But it is O. K. now and never again, unless for a mighty good reason, will the splendid new church clock falter.

Construction Of Viaduct Is Urged At Once

Rev. C. S. Joshua In Sermon
Last Evening, Asks
That Project Be
Started

AGAIN CONDEMNNS OTHER BRIDGE PLAN

Asserting that there is no excuse for delaying the construction of the Neshannock viaduct, Rev. C. S. Joshua, pastor of the Croton M. E. church, urged from his pulpit last evening that plans for such a structure be drawn immediately and that the viaduct be built at once.

Rev. Joshua's sermon was a follow-up of the one preached two weeks ago, when he stated that the viaduct should be built as an unemployment measure.

Additional facts were presented last evening, substantiating his claims in behalf of the citizens of the Croton district.

Commands Progress
Rev. Joshua took his text from Proverbs, 29th chapter and a portion of the 18th verse, "Where there is no vision, the people perish." Modernizing the theme, he said the meaning he wished to convey, was that where there is no vision, the people suffer.

In part, Rev. Joshua said: "The church is not interested only in the redemption of man. Redemption is a big word, with a wide meaning. I would love to be responsible if I could, for the redeeming of the world from want and misery. The world is crying out for someone to redeem it."

"We are here tonight, men and women, interested in our city. The church stands for everything that spells progress."

"We wish to command those men who represented us at the waterways meeting, seeking to bring about improvement of our streams which would enable our local industries to compete on a more favorable basis with those in other sections of the country, and provide work for our men here in New Castle."

"Is not the church interested in helping men to obtain employment? The more work a man has, the better it is for the church and his family. It means prosperity, success, and happiness."

"I make no apology for bringing facts to the people from the pulpit. Following my sermon two weeks ago, I attended other meetings in which these things were being discussed. I made reference to the building of this viaduct. Some of the statements I made were denied, and others were doubted, and it calls for a further discussion on my part."

A Mistaken Man
"I was told that a grand jury had never approved the viaduct. A grand jury has approved the project, making such a report on June 9, 1926, after a public hearing on the subject. There is no sense in denying such a statement of truth. How should anyone question or deny this fact, when the records prove it. Yet a representative citizen of this city told me I was a mistaken man."

"Everything necessary for the undertaking of this project has been done as far as its legality is concerned. If anything, I want to be a Christian gentleman, and I ask from this pulpit tonight that Mr. Gilkey, the county engineer be asked to draw plans for this bridge, at once."

"I was told the other day that it would cost two and a half million dollars to build it. Mr. Gilkey himself, testifying before the grand jury which approved the project, says it would cost $400,000. Other men who speak from authority say that it will cost between $250,000 and $400,000."

"Lawrence county has 74 millions in assessable property. The tax rate is between six and seven mills. This brings in about $400,000 each year. In New Castle proper, the assessed valuation is around 54 millions and the tax rate 12 mills. This brings in $640,000 each year. In all, more than a million dollars is collected from the tax payers of the city and county. It would take only four months taxes to pay for the bridge if it cost $400,000. It would not be necessary to increase taxes to pay for it."

Quotes McCullough
"I am quoting County Commissioner McCullough, and he says he is willing to be quoted. The only salvation for the relief of the traffic question in New Castle is the building of the Neshannock viaduct. That is the opinion of our county commissioner."

"The safety director of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company recognizes the danger of the grade crossing at the foot of Croton hill. Anything that will remove that damnable death trap is worthy of consideration. We always wait for a tragedy before we act."

"They tell me that a few years ago, a dear girl started out across those tracks and didn't make it. I ask if any girl has ever been killed on Lawrence street, because of a grade crossing. Only a few weeks ago, a car slipped and skidded over the hill, and the people were rushed to the hospital. Cannot we visualize because of the occurrences of the past, that something like that is going to occur again in the future."

"I say with all the earnestness of my soul. Build the viaduct before it is too late."

"An attorney of this city said to me, 'Don't you know you are advocating something that will be a mile and a half long?' The viaduct would only be 635 feet long. It will connect points from the east with those of the west, and all roads leading from these sections would be joined on a high level traffic route which would take people out of the main section of the city."

Rev. Joshua then repeated arguments which have been previously advanced, of how traffic within the city between various sections would be expedited by the bridge. How the hospitals, cemeteries, the fair grounds and other points could be reached without going down into the heavy traffic and narrow streets of the business section."

Should Hang Head
"In the light of these facts I have presented, any man who is in favor of the Lawrence street bridge, should hang his head in shame. A perfect ridiculous waste of money. It doesn't eliminate any hazards."

"An ordinance was passed September 4, 1926, providing for approaches to the viaduct by the city; the county appointed viewers and they voted favorably on the project; Many prominent citizens gave favorable testimony before the grand jury; The city zoning commission and planning commission have endorsed and recommended."

"We have officiated at the funerals of two men from this congregation who had hoped they would live to see the day when they could pass over this viaduct. I repeat and urge that the viaduct be built before it is too late."

"Is the church interested? Certainly it is interested. My Lord has been at my side through storm and strife, through the greatest of dangers, and I know he is approving this message in the interests of our children, our doctors, the harrowing experiences of life."

"I urge that the only project that should interest our officials is this viaduct, and again I ask that plans be drawn and ask that the citizens who are in favor of the Lawrence street bridge cease their efforts in its behalf."

BANISHED MANY ILLS
Every day more people vouch for the amazing power of Ten Herbs in relieving disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

MRS. LAKE SHAFER
"I want to add my name to those who are praising Ten Herbs, because of the way your medicine benefited my whole system," said Mrs. Lake Shaffer, R. D. Box 301, New Castle. "I had indigestion so badly that I could eat scarcely anything without being distressed with gas and bloating. Even the most wholesome food disagreed with my stomach. Sometimes the gas caused a soreness in my stomach and made such a pressure and heaviness after a meal that I could hardly breathe. My liver must have been disordered as I felt drowsy and sluggish and was inclined to fall asleep during the day. My appetite was poor. I had headaches and there were pains in the region of my kidneys. Ten Herbs is benefiting so many people that I find your medicine and it helped me, too. My appetite improved and food began to digest better than it had for a long time. I got more nourishment from what ate and my liver and kidneys were free of that crowsy, sluggish feeling and gained in strength. I also got relief from headaches and the pains in my kidneys. I do not hesitate to recommend your medicine to others."

Ten Herbs is sold at Richard's of New Castle, Inc., 30 E. Washington St., and by all leading druggists throughout this entire section.

To each contestant, Miss Suzanne Young, librarian, has given a lengthy story made up exclusively of book titles. In the story some 114 book titles are hidden, and all are the names of more or less prominent books.

Local Funeral Firm Introduces Car Markers
The Book-Leyde Mortuary, of this city, announces a valuable and distinctive addition to its service, in the form of flags to identify each car in the funeral procession.

This mark of identification was made necessary by traffic conditions, and absolutely prevents cars not in the procession from unwittingly joining it, or cutting through the procession to the embarrassment and inconvenience of the mourners.

The markers which the Book-Leyde Mortuary will employ are small white flags upon a short metal staff, and are attached to the left front fender of all cars in the cortege by means of patented rubber-protected clamps which cannot injure the finish of the car in any way.

By tonight the postoffice will be heavy with important mail, letters carrying Christmas savings checks to thousands of people in New Castle and Lawrence County, for the total of $328,000 is being mailed today.

By noon tomorrow the banks will be busy converting the checks into cash and the fortunate possessors of the checks will be busy converting the cash into razors and radios, suits and saxophones, candy and canned peas.

For the past twelve months the golden horde has been trickling into the banks a little at a time, in dimes and dollars, a little each week and now the entire total is released in one flood.

The release of the Christmas Savings checks should mean an increase in business for the merchants and with the conversion of the checks into cash the Christmas shopping season gets under way in a serious fashion here.

London Changes In Last Decade

(International News Service)
LONDON, Dec. 1.—Never in her age-long history has London been the scene of such building activity

as that which has taken place in the last decade.

In the ten years a quarter of a million new buildings have sprung into being, and the appearance of the capital has been greatly changed.

Slum areas have been swept away and replaced by more commodious and more hygienic erections; old offices and shops have given way to new, enlarged and far more spacious and beautiful structures.

During the ten years more than 240,000 houses have been erected

as that which has taken place in the last decade.

However, the skyscraper has not yet made its appearance. They regard a ten-story building over here as being "really" high.

STOLEN CAR FOUND

Any inflammation of the throat can spread very fast. Don't go to bed with "just a sore throat." It may be tonsillitis by morning! It takes five minutes or less to gargle with Bayer Aspirin. This simple precaution may save you days of suffering. It not only relieves all soreness, but reduces the infection.
